Trade Better; Santa Remembers Needy.

The best Christmas since 1930 was celebrated throughout the city yesterday. It was hailed as such because social agents overlooked none of the city's needy or poor. It was the best since that year in trade and industry. Railroads, loop department stores and commercial institutions in general reported increased volume of business.

Church bells summoned worshipers who came in throngs to give thanks. Special Christmas services took place in nearly every church in the city.

At the Holy Name cathedral Cardinal Mundelein celebrated pontifical high mass at 11 o'clock. The cathedral choir and the cathedral symphony orchestra supplied music.

Spirit of Good Fellowship.

Midnight services were held in a number of Episcopal churches. The chimes of the famous carillon of St. Chrysostom's church on the near north side could be heard by persons in the loop.

Welfare workers and private philanthropists were busy during the day feeding the indigent and homeless. Several thousand residents of relief shelters enjoyed generous meals at special Christmas celebrations.

In 1,800 poor homes in the city there was rejoicing because of baskets delivered by the Good Fellows of Chicago at the instance of THE TRIBUNE. Clients on the relief rolls were permitted to purchase extra food along with the usual Christmas dainties.

In the county hospital 1,800 patients relished special dinners. Christmas trees ordered by Warden Michael Zimmer stood in all the wards. Entertainers furnished by the Barry council of the Knights of Columbus visited each ward.

Chicken for Prisoners.

Supt. E. J. Denemark of the Bridewell served chicken dinners with all the trimmings to the 2,000 prisoners. The 835 prisoners in the county jail were also served chicken for their dinner. Celebrations were held in other city and county institutions. At Dunning, 4,000 patients in the state hospital for the insane had a special dinner and an entertainment.

At St. Vincent's orphanage 260 youngsters found their stockings filled and were treated to a Santa Claus party. Patients at the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital were able to view Christmas trees which were set up for them in the corridors of the hospital.

Besides these celebrations, numerous parties were held throughout the city for the poor. Albert J. Horan, bailif of the Municipal court, sponsored a party for 3,000 children in the Senate theater, 3128 Madison street.

Play Hosts to Neighbors.

The St. Michael's men club, 3160 East 33d street, acted as host for 2,000 children at a party at the Commercial theater, 9150 Commercial avenue.

On West Madison street a number of taverns served dinners without charge for the destitute neighbors. Al Bernstein, owner of the tavern at 676 Madison street, fed several hundred persons and served free beer with the meals.

Capt. M. A. Jacobson of the Wilmette coast guard station and his men gave a turkey dinner yesterday for 20 children whose families are on relief. Mrs. J. C. Blaylock, head of the Wilmette Welfare association, arranged the guest list. The hosts supplied candy, presents, and a large Christmas tree.

The Boys' General Assembly, colored, 320 East 38th street, distributed several thousand "good cheer bags" to colored children on the south and west sides.

SCARLET FEVER CHRISTMAS

KULING, Kiangsi Province, China, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Prisoners of quarantine in an alien land, 100 American school children and teachers managed to let no homesickness interfere with a merry Christmas here today.

A scarlet fever epidemic held them in this mountain top city. The school is one of six which Americans in China maintain for their children, and the pupils come from all over the far east.

Wooden Coaches Are Splintered.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 26 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Fifteen persons were killed and from 40 to 60 were injured Christmas night when a Detroit to Toronto train of the Canadian National Railways crashed into the rear of a holiday special train, bound from London to Toronto, on a siding at Dundas, seven miles from here.

W. A. Kingsland, vice president and general manager of the central region of the Canadian National railways, announced officially that trains involved in the wreck were "No. 16, en route from Detroit to Toronto and points east," and "a passenger extra en route from London to Toronto."

All of the victims were believed to have been on the two rear coaches of the first train. It had been pulled into the siding because of a "hot-box."

First reports of the Christmas tragedy indicated that most, if not all, of the victims were Canadians.

Wooden Coaches Smashed.

The stationary train was made up largely of wooden day coaches. Two of the cars were torn into pieces while a third was piled upon its end, poised just above a 150-foot bluff.

Bodies of the 15 victims were brought here and placed in a baggage shed. The wreck occurred shortly after 9 p. m.

The known victims included R. S. Sise of Toronto, a son of Paul Sise, president of the Northern Electric company, Limited, and Mary Parker, also of Toronto. Others were not immediately identified.

Officials of the railway immediately opened an investigation into the cause of the tragedy.

Screams of the injured were heard in the little town of Dundas, located in a valley far below the tracks, which run along the face of a steep cliff at the scene of the accident.

Too Late to Stop.

Survivors said the engineer of the second train applied his brakes when it was traveling at a fast speed, but it was too late to do more than slow down the impetus. Normally the express runs through Dundas at 70 miles an hour.

Partial List of Injured.

Those injured included:

MISS MAGUIRE SLEEPS THROUGH 3D CHRISTMAS

Christmas day was just another day of sleep yesterday for Miss Patricia Maguire, 29 year old daughter of Mrs. Peter Miley, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, who was stricken with a rare type of sleeping sickness on Feb. 15, 1932.

For nearly three years Patricia slept in a comalike state, baffling all physicians, but since last November she has seemed on the road to recovery. In recent weeks she has been able to respond to simple directions written on a slate, and her improvement seemed so marked that her family thought that on her third Christmas of affliction she might join in the Christmas gayety.

So they had made elaborate plans for the day.

But yesterday morning, because of Patricia's condition, the plans were changed, and Patricia spent a third Christmas in bed.

Flies 314 Miles PerHour;Land Plane Record

ISTRES, France, Dec. 25.—(AP)—America's hold on the world speed record for land planes over a closed course was smashed today by the veteran French Pilot Raymond Delmotte with an average of 314 miles an hour.

The 40 year old flyer, who has held several world records during his career, shot his trim French Caudron Renault monoplane over the circuit course for one lap at 321 miles an hour.

The Caudron is a low wing monoplane and the motor is a Renault Bengali, six in line, developing about 350 horsepower. The landing gear is fixed with "pants" covering the wheels. The plane is comparatively small.

Slow on First Trial.

It was only after a year and more of dogged attempts that Delmotte managed to crack the mark of 306 miles an hour set by the late James Wedell in 1933. Wedell died in a plane crash in Louisiana last June.

Several times in the last few months Delmotte had come close to breaking the record, but couldn't quite do it until today. Failure stared him in the face again in his first trial at noon, when he attained only 299 miles an hour.

Late in the afternoon he decided to have one more try at the record. The weather had cleared. Gaining speed with each lap he finally reached and held the roaring pace that gained him his long sought goal.

Below Seaplane Record.

His average speed was clocked at 502.465 kilometers an hour. Wedell's record was 490.8 kilometers. Delmotte's top speed for a single circuit was 514 kilometers.

[The official record for seaplanes set recently by Lieut. Francesco Angello of Italy is 440.6759 miles an hour.]

Delmotte set a world distance record over a closed course in 1927 and since then has held several records in minor categories. He flew the first planes over several African routes now operated regularly by the French.

PLANE RATTLES APART; VESTRIS HERO LANDS IT

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Capt. Harry Manning, master of the liner Manhattan and hero of the Vestris and several other sea rescues, landed safely at Roosevelt field today in a small, borrowed airplane that had begun to fall apart at 3,000 feet.

HARRY MANNING.

Capt. Manning, a private airplane pilot, said he decided not to make a parachute jump because he feared the unmanned plane would crash on homes.

Capt. Manning borrowed a plane with a 90 horsepower motor for a short flight this afternoon. At 3,000 feet, the ship began to vibrate violently. One blade of the propeller had snapped, severing the ground wire.

With the wire cut, the pilot was unable to shut off the motor and glide to a landing. The gasoline and oil pipes broke and fuel sprayed over Capt. Manning. He stuck to the ship, however, and landed.

Zero Wave on Way;Expected Here Tonight

A cold wave, sweeping down from Canada, is expected to reach Chicago today and send the mercury tumbling to the zero mark by night. Last evening the icy blasts covered Montana, the Dakotas and most of Minnesota, and were sweeping over Iowa.

Williston, N. D., set the lowest mark as the cold wave progressed eastward, reporting an official 22 degrees below zero. Bismarck, N. D., had 16 below weather, as did Devil's Lake, S. D.

Looking over his maps and reports, Weather Forecaster Charles A. Donnel predicted that the mercury in Chicago would start dropping early today and would continue to fall throughout the day until the zero mark is reached. Moderately strong northwest winds are expected.

About 10 o'clock last night a light, powdery snow began to fall as a preface to the oncoming cold, but Mr. Donnel predicted that today would bring only a little snow.

The prediction was that by today the cold wave will have overspread the extreme lower Missouri, the Middle Mississippi, and lower Ohio valleys, and most of the upper Great Lakes region.

The cold wave will probably begin to wane here Thursday, it was said.

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Betty Gow, the nurse who put the Lindbergh child to bed the night he was kidnaped, returned here today on the Aquitania from Glasgow to testify at the murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Miss Gow last saw Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. asleep at 8:30 p. m. the night of March 1, 1932. She found his crib empty at 10 p. m. when she next went to the nursery. It was she who gave the alarm to Col. Lindbergh.

Since the arrest of Hauptmann, Miss Gow is reported to have studied photographs of the suspect without being able to place him in any connection with the crime or the scene.

Witness for Prosecution.

Defense attorneys have declared themselves to be as anxious as the prosecution to have Miss Gow as a witness. According to Attorney General David T. Wilenz, however, she has been called as a witness for the state.

According to a report published last week, the expenses of her trip here and back to Scotland are being borne by New Jersey.

Her arrival today was attended by exceptional efforts to keep her from contact with the press or with anyone but the Lindbergh and Morrow establishments. Although she traveled tourist third class, the Cunard home office at Liverpool issued special orders of secrecy to officers of the Aquitania, and similar instructions had come from Washington to United States immigation officers.

Miss Gow's name was entered on the ship's records as "Bessie Galloway," except on the manifest which is given to the custom officials and which must carry the true name.

Name Kept Off Passenger List.

On this sheet, however, there was a pencil notation that Miss Gow was not to be made to stand in line with other passengers for the immigration checkup. An immigration officer made a special trip to her cabin to give her shore clearance. Her name was kept off the printed passenger list.

Her presence aboard was established only because the Aquitania arrived early and Miss Gow waited aboard for two hours for the arrival, in a station wagon, of Mrs. Ollie Wheatley, widow of the Lindbergh's butler. During that time eight reporters and ten cameramen succeeded in locating her and finding out that she had nothing to say and was sorry.

Taken to Morrow Home.

An assistant purser accompanied the nurse from the ship to the waiting station wagon, in which she was taken to Next Day Hill, in Englewood, N. J., the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother.

The Lindberghs have been living there since they gave up their Sourland mountain home following the kidnaping.

ADMITS KILLING TAVERN OWNER; ACCUSES WIDOW

A 19 year old youth confessed yesterday to the Chicago Lawn police that he killed George Ericksen, owner of the Airport Grill, 6001 South Cicero avenue, last Saturday morning and added the startling accusation that the crime was planned by Ericksen's wife, Anna, to collect $2,500 life insurance.

The confession was made by James Senese, 6204 South Keating avenue. He told police he had been promised $500 of Ericksen's insurance proceeds for doing the actual killing.

A second confession was made by Elmer Krueger, 21 years old, 3434 West 114th street, an auto mechanic. Krueger said he was present at the slaying, having been promised $250 by Senese to assist in the murder.

Accusers Confront Widow.

Mrs. Ericksen, mother of six children, who had been held by the police in the women's quarters at the Hyde Park station since the day of the slaying, was brought to the Chicago Lawn station last night and confronted by her accusers. She denied their stories, calling Senese a liar and continuing to assert that she knew of no motive for her husband's murder.

"The murder was first planned for Wednesday night," Senese said, repeating his confession at the request of police, "and at the last minute I backed out. Mrs. Ericksen called me 'yellow' and I promised to do it Saturday."

"Liar!" Shouts Woman.

"You're a liar, Jimmy," Mrs. Ericksen shouted. "You know you are. I had nothing to do with it."

When shown the gun Senese used, the widow said that "it might be" the same weapon she had been given a year ago by a friend for protection. She declared she attempted to commit suicide a year ago but was prevented by her husband. Police found 21 cartridges which would fit the gun on a shelf at the tavern.

After further questioning failed to break Mrs. Ericksen's denials, she was returned to the women's quarters at the Hyde Park station. She will be questioned again today but will be allowed to go to her husband's funeral under guard if she desires, the police said. Her daughter Geraldine, 18 years old, unaware of the murder plot accusation, had visited the station earlier in the evening to request that her mother be released to attend the funeral.

Confessions Convince Police.

"The case is now in the state's attorney's hands," declared Capt. Michael Lee of the Chicago Lawn police. "I believe the two youths' stories are sufficient to have Mrs. Ericksen prosecuted for her husband's murder along with them.

"The only other things we have to find out are who gave Mrs. Ericksen the gun a year ago and this person's identification of the weapon used by Senese as the same one."

The inquest into Ericksen's death will probably be reopened tomorrow, Capt. Lee said.

Ericksen, who was 46 years old, was slain in the areaway next to his home at 6221 South Keating avenue. Senese said in his confession that he and Krueger lay in wait while Mrs. Ericksen told her husband he could not enter the front door and sent him around to the rear to his death.

Police Find Gun in Attic.

Senese said he fired four shots into Ericksen's body from a .32 caliber Colt revolver given him by Mrs. Ericksen. The gun was found in the attic of Senese's home by the police last night.

Senese, a graduate of the Hibbard Junior High school, was taken into custody again yesterday by Sergts. Henry Melvin. Senese's confession was heard at the Chicago Lawn station by Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle.

According to his story, Senese had known Mrs. Ericksen for two years, frequenting the Airport grill, which she operated most of the time.

Two months ago, Senese said, Mrs. Ericksen told him she was quarreling with her husband and wanted him "bumped off" for the insurance money. She gave Senese the gun at that time, according to the confession, and promised him $500.

Last Thursday, Senese stated, Mrs. Ericksen saw him in the tavern again.

"She told me that if I didn't hurry the insurance policy would lapse in 10 days, as she hadn't paid the last premium," Senese said. "She informed me that her husband usually left the grill at 1 a. m. on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday mornings and went directly home.

"Mrs. Ericksen then said that she would tell her husband that she was cleaning in the front of the house and that he was to use the back entrance. She arranged to have me hide in the sleeping porch at the back and get him in the areaway.

Victim Falls; Shot Again.

"Everything went as planned. He came around the back way, where Krueger and I were waiting. I fired two shots at him in the areaway and then three more as he lay on the ground." [One of the bullets missed Ericksen.] Then I hid a while and left. I went home, put the gun in a rafter in the attic and went to sleep."

According to Assistant State's Attorney Boyle, Krueger took no part in the shooting and fled after the first shots.

The police are holding for further questioning the dead man's son, George Jr., 17 years old, and Edward Wilkins, and John Bowman, an ex-convict, both of 6113 South Kilpatrick avenue.

LAW SCHOOLS TO STUDY NEW DEAL IN SESSIONS HERE

Legal problems which have arisen under the National Recovery Administration will be given critical attention at the 32d annual convention of the Association of American Law Schools, opening a three day session at the Stevens hotel tomorrow. A thorough investigation of the American bar will be asked by delegates to the convention, officials said yesterday.

In attendance will be leading authorities on law from universities and schools throughout the United States. Besides delegates from the twenty-seven member schools the meetings will be attended by a number of nationally known judges, lawyers, and government officials.

Other subjects to be discussed, according to Rufus C. Harris, Tulane university, secretary of the association, will include monetary inflation, commercial arbitration, industrial competition, and the Lindbergh case.

RUSSIAN'S VISIT POINTS TO EARLY ACCORD ON DEBTS

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The arrival of Ivan E. Boyev from Moscow today added strength to the belief a settlement of the debts and claims dispute between the United States and Russia is imminent.

Boyev, formerly vice commissar for foreign trade, as chairman of the board of Amtorg, will be the trade commissioner in the United States. He arrived on the Ile de France.

Boyev first was scheduled to come to New York last September, but the delay in settling the debts question held him in Moscow. At that time it was said he would not come to America until the negotiations between Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky and the state department were near a settlement.

In recent weeks, several New York industrialists and financiers have been informed by Washington officials that an accord was expected in January.

FIRE CHIEF LENDS EAR TO WORRIED OWNER OF CASH

Firemen, battling a blaze in a three story brick building at 3401 North Halsted street, last night noted a man who kept running up and down trying to break through the fire lines and get closer to the structure. Finally the man, identifying himself as Otto Olson, managed to get the ear of Chief Frank J. Braban of the Thirteenth battalion.

"My money—$300 is up there in my room on the third floor!" he told the chief. "Something must be done."

Chief Braban gave the necessary orders. A ladder was raised to the third story window, and Mr. Olson's $300 was carried to safety.

Child Strangles Self While Parents Fix First Tree

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 25.—(AP)—While his parents were decorating his first Christmas tree, 6 months old Rene Katz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Katz, strangled to death here last night. His sleeping suit became twisted about his neck. The child was put to bed in an upstairs room while the parents were busy below. His mother found the child unconscious.

Police Return Two Missing Small Boys for Christmas

Two small boys, missing since Friday when they went downtown to look at toys, were returned to their homes yesterday in time for a Christmas celebration. They were Edward Stipe, 10 years old, 5481 Dorchester avenue, and Walter Whitney, 9, of 5463 Dorchester avenue. Police found them sleeping in a hallway at 63d street and Dorchester avenue Monday night.

youngsters and teachers alike, arising before dawn, gathered around a great illuminated Christmas tree and found that St. Nick had arrived anyway.

Carols in 3 Languages.

Huge piles of gifts from parents and friends were stacked under the tree. Carols were sung in English, French, and Latin. Amateur vaudeville, drama, and magic exhibits filled the day's program.

Five scarlet fever patients who caused the quarantine enjoyed their own tree in Kuling hospital. They, too, were swamped with gifts from their loyal schoolmates.

This evening a great dinner of pheasant and wild duck, with all the trimmings, climaxed the day. Studies will be resumed tomorrow as usual.

Bethlehem Bells Peal Out.

BETHLEHEM, Palestine, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Historic bells pealed out from the belfry of the Franciscan monastery of the nativity this afternoon, sending their tones across 3,000 miles of ether to London, thence to be relayed throughout the British empire. A temporary broadcasting studio was fitted out inside a whitewashed cell of the Latin monks' retreat.

Christmas Service in English.

ROME, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Cardinal Lepicier preached an English sermon at Christmas services for American Catholics today at the Santa Susanna church. The cardinal returned recently from a visit to the houses of the Servite order on the Pacific coast.

A newly ordained priest, Father Joseph F. Troy of Yonkers, N. Y., recited mass, which was his first. Students from the American college chanted Christmas carols. During the afternoon a special broadcast for America was given in the catacombs of San Domitilia.

Another Day in Russia.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Christmas was just another day in soviet Russia, where the government will have nothing to do with religion.

It was not a holiday. Work went on as usual in the schools. Shops were open. Publicly there was no evidence of celebrating the birth of the Man of Galilee.

But the day was observed in thousands of orthodox Greek churches which have adopted the Gregorian calendar. The churches clinging to the Julian calendar will commemorate the birth of Christ 13 days later, as was the custom in pre-revolutionary days.

Religion Denounced.

The three historic churches in the Kremlin, and St. Pastil's in Red square, which were the great centers for all religious feasts in the days of the czars, are no longer used for religious services but are preserved by the bolshevik government as museums.

Under the direction of the militant Godless society, meetings were held in clubs and various communist party centers, where religion was denounced as an enemy of the proletarian government.

The American colony welcomed the arrival of Christmas last night at a brilliant dancing party and supper in the home of United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

HORNER'S YULE MESSAGE SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Christmas message from Gov. Horner was marked by confidence in the economic future but no definite information on the state government's plans.

The governor spoke briefly today [over radio station WTAX] accompanying his holiday greetings with a declaration that Springfield merchants reported the best year in five years.

"The sadness and distress of the past years are not entirely without their compensations," Mr. Horner said. "During the year that is drawing to a close we have demonstrated to the world and to ourselves that the fighting spirit of America is still vibrant. We have proved that our citizenship possesses—and in good measure, too—those three basic and magic qualities of faith and hope and charity."

GLORIA ATTENDS YULE SERVICES WITH HER MOTHER

Cousin from Britain Her Playmate.

Gloria arrived at her mother's apartment in East 72d street about 10:30 this morning.

Soon thereafter she was taken to church, the party including her mother, Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and her aunt, Lady Furness, twin sisters [wearing similar mink coats], and William Anthony Furness.

Attend Later Services.

Arriving just before the close of the 10 o'clock mass at the church of St. Francis of Assisi, in West 31st street, Gloria scarcely had time to kneel at the central aile before being taken to the reserved security of the balcony, where she and her mother sat Sunday morning.

That mass ended shortly, and the party was transferred to the third pew from the front of the lower church, or shrine of St. Anthony. The children sat while the pastor, the Rev. Father Samuel Gregor, delivered a sermon, and a visiting choir from Butler, N. J., chanted. The party left at 11:40 through the monastery.

Detectives Watch Child.

So far the private detectives had been able to shield Gloria to a large extent from photographers, but they could not disperse the waiting knot of cameramen. At about noon Mrs. Vanderbilt sent word out that she would receive the press at 1:10; she hoped it would disappear until then.

Gloria's mother kept her word in the dim foyer of the Brownstone house. She spoke pleasantly, but with a trace of weariness. She was very sorry the newspaper men had to spend Christmas standing on her doorstep, but she felt she owed it to Gloria to keep her pictures out of the papers.

Holiday Is Child's Own.

"Her Christmas is her own," Mrs. Vanderbilt said, "not the public's. I am not Mrs. Hauptmann, you know; why don't you go and take Mrs. Hauptmann's picture around a Christmas tree?"

Someone asked: "What did Gloria give you for Christmas?"

"I'm not going to say," she smiled faintly.

"Did you like it?"

"Very much," she said.

There was a turkey for dinner, and a large Christmas tree, Mrs. Vanderbilt explained. There had been Christmas greetings from friends, and from strangers, all over the country. Otherwise, the celebration was what she had originally said it would be, a secret between mother and daughter. The Furnesses shared it, of course, but there were no other children besides Tony.

BATTLE FLEET PLAYS SANTA CLAUS FOR UNLUCKY CHILDREN

San Pedro, Cal., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Battleships, aircraft carriers, and battle cruisers of the United States fleet were hosts today to 1,600 underprivileged children of the San Pedro, Long Beach, and Los Angels harbor area at the merriest Christmas ever administered by King Neptune dressed as Santa Claus.

The children were taken aboard 32 of the huge battle wagons at 1 p. m. and were given one hour for turkey dinner. At 2 o'clock entertainment by the ships' bands, and by vaudeville talent, began, around Christmas trees installed on the foredecks. After the vaudeville Santa Claus came up over the side on each vessel and handed out toys, candy, and complete outfits of clothing to each boy and girl. The money for the children's treat came entirely from donations pooled by the officers and enlisted men. The celebration was under Capt. Adolphus Staton, commanding U. S. Battleship Nevada.

PRISONERS TURN TABLES; PLAY THE HOST TO WARDEN

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Christmas in Nebraska State prison set a new precedent today—the convicts had Warden Dan Kavanaugh and his wife as their "guests."

Without formality the Kavanaughs dined at noon with gray garbed men on all sides of them at one of the long tables in the mess hall.

The prisoners had received their gifts and visitors early today but they wanted "company" for dinner and had turned to the man they call friend, the warden.

Every convict in the prison, 865 men, signed a 22 foot invitation which was presented to Kavanaugh and his wife. They readily accepted.

PURSES OF DIXIE STATES FATTER, SAY GOVERNORS

1934 Termed Year of March Toward Stability

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Definite progress toward financial stability of state governments marked 1934 in the agricultural south.

Governors, reviewing the year, today expressed gratification over increased revenues, passage of laws to prevent further debts, and improvement of credit.

Through laws controling two of this section's principal crops—cotton and tobacco—and various monetary aids to farmers, the federal government contributed largely to the south's returning prosperity.

Pass Laws to Curb Debts.

The states, however, took important steps, especially in Kentucky and Alabama, against further financial troubles coming from unpaid debts, by passing laws preventing contracting of additional debt.

"South Carolina," said Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood, "has emerged from the worst financial condition in more than 50 years and now is in better shape than in a long period of time."

During the year under Gov. Sennett Connor's administration Mississippi saw the sales tax produce more than $3,500,000 revenue, more than a quarter of a million dollars above budget estimates. On the basis of figures made public in mid-December, combined with other taxes the state's revenue was more than one million dollars above budgetary estimates.

Sales Tax Seen as Aid.

A sales tax has restored Kentucky's credit and made the state's financial paper as good an investment as any that can be found, said Gov. Ruby Laffoon.

"During the year," he continued, "a financial code was enacted making it practically impossible for Kentucky to go further into debt."

Gov. B. M. Miller of Alabama likewise reported enactment of legislation halting further debt making.

"We have paid much on our state debt this year," Gov. J. M. Futrell of Arkansas reported, "hope to pay more next year, and eventually to wipe it out entirely. I believe the state's credit is rapidly being restored.

"Arkansas got its biggest problem—refunding of the 155 million dollars highway debt—out of the way in 1934, our revenues increased beyond all expectations and we look with more confidence on 1935."

Tax Cut In Georgia.

Gov. Eugene Talmadge says the "record speaks for itself" in Georgia, where ad valorem taxes were cut one mill by the state and the highway department was ordered to save 2 million dollars to be diverted by the January legislature to aid schools and confederate pensioners.

Generally improved business conditions throughout the state was the report of Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida. The 1933-34 tourist season, which extended into May, was described as the "best since the boom" and indications are for a better season in 1934-35.

County's Only Leper Has Gay Christmas; Is Better

Ernest Gallardo, 26 years old, Filipino, who has been in the county hospital for a year suffering from leprosy, spent a happy Christmas. Hospital attachés and friends took to his private room a radio, books and other gifts. Attending physicians found his condition better and the marks of the disease less noticeable. Gallardo, whose illness balked his study of dentistry, is believed to be the only leper in Cook county.

Holiday Fires Take 9 Lives As Three Houses Are Razed

Sedalia, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three children and their mother are dead, three other persons are in a dangerous condition from burns here today. A Christmas tree fire was started by a flying bit of match head in the home of Judson Miller, oil man.

A gay Christmas eve party in the Miller home turned into tragedy when Henry Gumm, an employé of Miller and a friend of the family lighted a cigaret.

Match Head Ignites Tree.

Mrs. Miller was on the second floor of the home with her three children. Their escape was cut off as the flames enveloped the stairway and struck their bedroom door.

Four Die in Another Home.

Joplin, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The toll of a Christmas eve fire in the home of Everett Crume, 28, a miner, reached four today. His wife and 8 month old son, Jimmy, were added to the death list.

Three year old Frances Crume died last night a few hours after firemen found her behind a couch, seeking refuge from the flames. They discovered the body of Buddy, 6, on an upper floor. He had suffocated.

Crume may die, but 5 year old Jeannie had less serious burns. The fire started when Crume poured kerosene into a stove. The house was destroyed.

Farmer Dies in Blaze.

Madison, Minn., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A 72 year old man was burned to death, while his twin 16 year old daughters and an older son escaped by jumping from a second story window when fire destroyed their home in a Christmas eve tragedy, reports of which reached here today.

L. L. Johnson, a farmer in this vicinity, was the victim. He was sleeping downstairs, while his 20 year old son, Vernon, and the twin daughters occupied bedrooms upstairs.

Jumping from the window, scantily clothed, the three attempted to enter their father's bedroom, but were repulsed by the flames, which were fanned by a high wind. The house was destroyed before they could summon help from neighbors, who were caring for them today.

BETTY GOW HERE FROM SCOTLAND FOR LINDY TRIAL

satire of a kidnaping case which the state and the defense mutually denounced the previous day as prejudicial.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, who previously denounced the supposed prejudice, announced forty-eight names will be drawn from the panel tomorrow to be examined when the trial opens Jan. 2, to supply the twelve who are to decide the guilt or innocence of Hauptmann.

C. Lloyd Fisher, of Hauptmann's defense counsel, said he did not intend to oppose this action. "We are perfectly satisfied with the present panel," he said.

Plan Jury Panel Parley.

A meeting is scheduled also for tomorrow in Trenton at which Attorney General Wilentz is to discuss the necessity of a new panel with the prosecutor and with the defense. It was believed today that this meeting, scheduled at the first outcry of prejudice, will not consider it sufficiently well founded to warant a delay of twenty to forty days for a new panel.

Meanwhile an "interview" with Mrs. Hauptmann was broadcast, the suspect's wife speaking from a room in the hotel opposite the jail holding her husband. "I would like to appeal to the people of the country to wait until they hear every side of the story before they condemn him," Mrs. Hauptmann said of her husband.

In the county jail, Hauptmann and 14 other prisoners ate Christmas dinner of stewed chicken, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, spiced cabbage, bread, butter, and coffee.

Yule Carol "Crisis."

Hauptmann's presence in the county jail created a crisis for the singers of Christmas carols in Flemington. At first it had been announced choristers of the Children's Choir school would sing as usual whenever they saw a light in a window, and that had included the jail for forty years.

Miss Elizabeth Van Fleet Vosseller, director and founder of the choir school said, however, she had received so many "nasty letters" about letting children sing to suspected Lindbergh kidnapers that she decided against it.

Thereupon, she received as many additional "nasty letters" denouncing the stand against singing. But children did not sing at the jail. Neither did they appear at the hotel where Hauptmann's wife and his son Mannfried have quarters.

DIES OF INJURIES IN FALL.

GIRL, 3, REARED AMONG ESKIMOS, FLIES TO HER FIRST REAL CHRISTMAS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A "dicky bird"—that's what she calls an airplane—brought 3 year old Victoria Pasley down from her bleak Victoria island home, beyond the artic circle, for her first real Christmas today.

Out from the north for the first time since she was born one blizzardy, 60 below zero night, the child prattled happily in mixed English and Eskimo dialect as the age old joys of the yuletide were revealed to her. She visited friends here with her mother, Mrs. A. S. Pasley.

Never before had Victoria seen another white child. Her only playmates had been Eskimo children, and she picked up their language. She just now is learning English. The little visitor, still walking with the gait peculiar to those who spend much time on snowshoes, was elated and excited, her blue eyes round with wonder, over the Christmas tree, the counterpart of Santa Claus and the packages of bundles containing dolls, doll clothes, wagons, and wooden toys.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The President's bedroom, ordinarily the place where the first official business of the day is transacted, was converted into a nursery this morning. Three of his grandchildren, white pajama clad, scampered all over his bed and tooted horns left last night by Santa Claus.

The youngsters who romped with Mr. Roosevelt this morning included Sistie and Buzzie Dall, the children of Mrs. Anna Dall, and little Sara, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Two grandchildren were absent, the infant daughter of Elliott Roosevelt and his second wife, the former Ruth Googins, who was taken by her parents to Fort Worth, Texas to visit the latter's parents over the holidays, and William Donner Roosevelt, son of Elliott by his first marriage.

President's Mother Guest.

The Roosevelt household, which was largely occupied yesterday with participation in public celebrations opening the holiday season, spent today much as it has for the last twenty-five years.

Chief among the White House guest was Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's mother. She arrived from Hyde Park, New York to be with her family for the holidays. Also present were Mrs. Anna Dall and James, Franklin, and John, the President's sons, together with Mrs. James Roosevelt.

All were up at an early hour to assist the children in emptying the stockings hung last night in the President's room and filled, just as in any other housefehold, after the small children had been sent off to bed.

After the initial excitement this morning and the romp in Mr. Roosevelt's bedroom, the older members of the family went into the corridor of the second floor of the White House. There presents for the older members of the family were piled about a Christmas tree, one not as large as those flanking the entrance of the White House or the one placed in the East room for public view, but more intimate and lighted with wax tapers at the special request of Mr. Roosevelt.

Attend Services Later.

Breakfast was served early enough to permit the President to go with Mrs. Roosevelt to special Christmas services held at St. Thomas' church.

The White House day was devoted thereafter to a quiet celebration that culminated at 7 p. m. in the serving of an old-fashioned dinner to an intimate family party.

The turkey carved by the President was one of about 20 sent by admirers. The others had been given to various charitable institutions.

U. S. IS PAID 59C BY OPERATORS OF HUGE ARMY BASE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The house military committee today charged war department officials were "woefully" lacking in protecting the government's interests in collecting but 59 cents from the Mercur corporation, which has been operating a $11,000,000 army base at Newark, N. J.

The committee has been conducting an investigation into war department contracts and procurement transactions. It recommended that Mercur corporation be held to a "strict accounting in the courts." The justice department, meanwhile, neared completion of a separate study of the situation.

The Mercur corporation, organized with $5,000 paid-in capital stock, was given a war department contract Nov. 27, 1926, to operate the property. The government was to receive 90 per cent of the net profit.

"Up to Dec. 31, 1933, the total receipts by the Mercur corporation for storage and services from this government property amounted to $4,692,546.78," the committee reported. "Of this sum only $8 in cash has been conveyed into the treasury of the United States.

"Since the money that was paid into the treasury was paid as part of the operating expenses, only 59 cents of this $8 was contributed by the Mercur corporation and the balance of $7.41 was paid from money equitably belonging to the United States."

PRESIDENT AND CABINET TO MEET ON COSTS TODAY

Plans Budget Message on Jan. 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will interrupt his holiday rest tomorrow for a meeting with the cabinet and the national emergency council, a meeting at which the biggest question in Washington may be decided. The question is how much the New Deal will spend next year for relief, public works and social experiments.

A few weeks ago New Dealers talked glibly about gigantic spending programs, emphasizing public works and housing, and the figures ranged all the way from three to twelve billion. The President put a stop to this talk, however, in the Ickes-Moffett housing feud, and since then not a figure has been mentioned, not even a billion.

Message Nearly Ready.

Mr. Roosevelt declared at his last press conference, Friday afternoon, that his annual message, to be delivered to congress on Jan. 3, was then in the rough draft stage and three-quarters finished. He has been working on it since then, but administration spokesmen say he will not decide the final question on the amount of spending he deems necessary until after the meeting with the cabinet and the other members of the NEC tomorrow. This decision will be contained in the President's budget message, to be delivered to congress a day later, Jan. 4.

The President made it known that his annual message, which probably will be delivered personally, will deal only in broad principles, and that individual messages will be sent to the capitol from time to time in connection with specific legislation the White House favors. There has been no intimation as to what his budget message will contain, but many observers believe he may not request any immediate appropriation for a works spending program.

May Dodge Huge Request.

It is believed in some official quarters that the President may postpone his request for a huge spending fund, or merely seek authority to spend as he sees fit by executive allotment. This would enable business and private industry to go ahead with their program, as outlined at the recent White Sulphur Springs conference, without committing the administration to any overt approval of private endeavor. If the plan worked, that would be fine; if it failed, the government could step in and start spending in a big way, blaming business at the same time for failing to produce.

The President faces a test of his leadership prowess in the 74th congress, both on the measures which he opposes and those which the administration supports. On the one hand, the radicals in congress are threatening to take the reins in their own hands and run away on such things as inflation, the soldiers' bonus, the 30 hour week and old age pensions, which the President wants to put off for a time.

Faces Fight on Treaties.

On the other hand, the President faces a fight on the St. Lawrence treaty and the world court, both of which are favored by the administration. The senate committee on foreign relations is ready to report out favorably the world court issue, and this will raise a fight against the measure led by Senators Borah and Johnson. Sentiment is turning against the St. Lawrence treaty in Canada, and this may influence the vote in the senate.

It is generally felt that the house would pass the soldiers' bonus over a presidential veto, but that the senate might not. However, the Republicans are talking about taking a stand in favor of the bonus and making it a party issue, despite three vetoes by Republican presidents. This would put it over in the senate.

JOHN NAVAJO TOURS WHITE SETTLEMENTS SEEKING YULE GIFTS

Gallup, N. M., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Because the pale face has a custom of giving Christmas presents, John Navajo capitalized on the idea, and with use of his equivalent for a "Merry Christmas" toured the reservation today to get his share of the day's joys.

Although the Navajo has no idea of the jolly old fellow who scooted down chimneys throughout the world last night, he has found that Christmas is a time of feasting and fun, and he makes adequate use of it.

Armed with a 100 pound gunny sack, tribesmen and their squaws toured the white settlements for their annual handout which comes on utterance of the Navajo word "Kishmas" or "Merry Kishmas"—which in English may be literally translated to mean "give me something" or "what have you"?

Youthful Navajos are going modern, however, and many bucks and maidens were reported to have bought gifts in pale face fashion in larger numbers than ever before.

FAY TEMPLETON IS 69; GUEST AT PARTY ON STAGE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Backstage at a gay musical show tonight, in the wings and behind the throb of brass and stringed instruments, there were greetings of "happy birthday and a merry Christmas" for Fay Templeton, the actress.

FAY TEMPLETON.

She is 69 today, and "proud of it."

Before the curtain call and the bustle of a Christmas night performance, she had time to think of the old time stage.

"I started when I was 3½ years old," she explained, "singing songs between the acts. I used to hold my mother's hand.

"Now," she laughed, "I don't hold any one's hand, and I get along fine."

There was East Lynne, when she was about 6 or 7 and was playing her first child part. "And then I was Mary—Mary somebody—in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," and after that "Puck" in Midsummer Night's Dream, on the stage of years ago.

"As long as I can spend Christmas anywhere," she firmly asserted, "I'm content to spend it on the stage. I go in pretty heavily for Christmas now, and I'm quite happy. There were many flowers and presents and messages.

"I was off the stage for a good while, but I'm back in harness now, and travel with the best of them.

"You know, when a person gets to be my age—I told you I was 69, didn't I, and I'm proud of it—it's often time to be put in the corner and be told to stay there. But I refuse to be told. I'll go in the corner when I'm ready."

The company backstage arranged its surprise for her tonight. There were packages and a small Christmas tree, back in the domain of ropes, props, and lights.

150 More Leave Chicago to Vote in Saar Plebiscite

12 County Civil Service Tests Given During 1934

The Cook county civil service commission conducted twelve examinations in 1934, according to the annual report, issued yesterday by Henry P. Heizer, president of the commission. The number of employés under civil service regulations remained unchanged at 1,500 during the year as the examinations were for the purpose of replacing those who dropped out.

SANTA DROPS 8 BILLIONS OF EASY CASH IN U. S. SOCK

Gets Railroad, Homes and Farms in Return.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The New Deal has stuffed approximately 8 billion dollars of easy money into the country's stocking during 1934 and has played Santa Claus to at least one out of every five persons in the country, a survey showed today.

In return Uncle Sam found in his stocking this morning mortgages on everything from private homes to railroads.

Having loaned money on farms, banks, railroads, insurance companies, and public works projects in addition to having advanced millions for relief of unemployment, the government found itself actually in possession of one railroad, a score of urban homes, and several farms on which it had had to foreclose in order to protect its investment.

How Billions Were Spent.

Altogether the New Deal's gifts and loans of easy money totaled approximately 8 billion dollars during the year. The easy money was disbursed through eight agencies of the New Deal as follows:

Relief Administration	$2,000,000,000
Reconstruction Finance Corp.	632,000,000
Public Works Administration	500,000,000
Farm Adjustment Admin.	573,000,000
Farm Credit Administration	1,827,000,000
Home Owners Loan Corp.	2,059,000,000
Conservation Corp.	372,000,000
Total	$7,963,000,000

If government payments to the veterans and to the federal burocracy which the New Deal inherited are included, the official records show that the treasury paid federal cash into the hands of between 23 and 25 million people during 1934. This means that the New Deal left a cash present in the stocking of one out of every five or six persons in the country.

1934 Most Costly Year.

The year 1934 has been the most expensive in the history of the government with the exception of the war years. The New Dealers, although they allocated a full 3 billion 300 million dollars for public works alone during 1933, broke all records in 1934. Their relief and mortgage refinancing programs did not get into full swing until the current year.

Blue ribbon for the largest expenditure during the year goes to the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the agency charged with refunding urban mortgages and the first of the New Deal units to close its doors because of lack of cash. The HOLC disbursed 2 billion 59 million dollars in cash and bonds during the year in order to relieve mortgage distress among city home owners. Its resources are now exhausted, and congress may be asked to vote another billion to it.

Relief Next Largest Item.

The FERA disbursed about 2 billion dollars of cash in direct cash doles and in payment of Civil Works administration bills. Although the CWA was conceived in 1933, most of its cost fell in 1934, helping to make the current year the banner one for New Deal expenditures.

Because much of the relief and farm benefit cash was distributed just before the election in November, the New Dealers were accused by Republican critics of playing Santa Claus at the expense of the public treasury in order to win the election. Far from answering these charges, Postmaster General James A. Farley, political generalissimo for the Democrats, urged the party's local candidates to point out to the electorate the amount of cash benefits the New Deal had brought to their districts.

NAZIS MOVE TO MAKE CHRISTMAS A PAGAN FESTIVAL

Would Inject "Blood and Soil" Ideas.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—Christmas as celebrating the birth of the Christ child may be replaced in the third Reich by a new pagan observance of the winter solstice if some expressions and practices of Nazi officials and organizations should impose themselves on the German people.

A definite effort to transform Christmas symbolism into something closer to the Nazi idea of "blood and soil" was noticeable this year—for the first time perhaps since the Christianization of the Germanic tribes.

Renewal of Nature.

Under this new dispensation Christmas tree lights have become symbols of the renewal of nature through the victory of light over darkness with a tendency to supplement or replace Christmas tree lights by the more powerful symbol of fire bursting from solstice pyres. Even the name of the celebration was changed to the "Festival of Jul," being presented as the original Germanic version of the English "wheel."

"The holy fires we light are to celebrate the turning of the sun," says a Voelkische Beobachter editorial. "Fires that are symbols for destruction of the decadent and bad; fires that are symbols of the new ascent to light which means life."

Observed by Labor Group.

The Christmas celebration in which the new rites were introduced was observed by selected representatives of the labor service army in the presence of Herr Hierl, commander in chief, at Ruhlsdorf, near Berlin. The celebration started with the lighting of a huge pyre before which camp inmates lined up with burning torches.

Describing this "wonderful nightly scene," the Beobachter explicitly calls it the Solstice celebration in line with its editorial although apparently the more orthodox Christmas observance followed.

The most outspoken in favor of the change is Herr Kube, governor of Brandenburg, who writes in Der Deutsche:

"Christmas celebration in Germanic lands is not the invention of the Christian church but an ancient custom from the days of our forefathers. The day of the winter solstice was holy to our ancestors and the period around the winter solstice was filled with fairyland magic of the Nordic soul. In this period gifts were exchanged without the indecent hindthought of getting a reward from heaven in return. For us, therefore, ever the Christian Christmas remains a festival of Germanic love, Germanic ways, and Germanic benevolence."

CUBAN REPORTER HURT AS FRIEND'S HOME IS BOMBED

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Alberto Garcia, Santiago correspondent of the Associated Press, was severely injured by a bombing early today as he stood in the doorway of a friend's home where a Christmas eve feast was drawing to a close. Five others, members of the family and guests of Enrique Comas, including Comas himself, were struck down by the blast, also suffering severe wounds.

As soon as his injuries permitted, Garcia dictated a telegram to the Associated Press office in Havana. Police arrested Luis Colas, accusing him of the bombing. There was no explanation of the motive.

Garcia had left his office at 1:15 a. m. for the purpose of checking Santiago police stations. En route he passed Comas' home, where a group was celebrating the customary "Noche Buena," or Christmas eve feast. Garcia stopped to chat with Comas and a bomb exploded at the door while Garcia was standing with his back to it.

BOY'S COURT HAS 30 PCT. FEWER CASES FOR 1934

The number of boys and youths under 21 years of age who were arraigned in the Municipal boys' court during 1934 was 30 per cent less than last year's figure, according to the court's annual report. In 1934 there were 4,992 defendants and in 1933 there were 7,136.

Court records showed more than half of the boys were attending high school or colleges, 65 per cent were first offenders.

Only 1,306, or 26 per cent, had jobs at the time of their arrests. Most of the boys were earning $10 a week or less.

Of approximately half a million persons arraigned in the Municipal court during the last year, only 619 persons were committed for psychopathic treatment, according to Dr. David B. Rotman, director of the psychiatric institute of the Municipal court, in his annual report. Dr. Rotman examined 1,795 but only a third of these were committed.

SUGAR CORNER LAID TO LIMIT SET ON OUTPUT

Exchange Board to Get Report Today.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The committee for voluntary liquidation of December, 1934, contracts on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange completed its hearings today and will report to the board of managers tomorrow morning.

It was reported that only a small part of the short position had been settled voluntarily although there were no official estimates on the remaining open positions in December sugar. No statement was made by the committee pending the report to the board of managers.

When the committee first met four days ago, the short position was reported to be about 25,000 tons against which no sugar was available for purchase or delivery. At two cents a pound or $40 a ton, the short interest stood at about a million dollars. No statements were made regarding the average price at which the contracts were sold originally but for every 25 points of rise from the sale price a loss of $125,000 was recorded.

Argue Over the Cause.

While the report of the committee was awaited, sugar authorities were involved in a heated discussion concerning the causes of the virtual corner in sugar which forced the decision to suspend trading Dec. 20 and to attempt a liquidation of December contracts.

The official explanation was that the situation arose from an agreement entered into several months ago between the Cuban Sugar institute and American refiners, according to which neither party could deliver any sugar on this market. Shorts, therefore, found themselves unable to acquire actual sugar they had expected to deliver this month against the December short positions assumed at various times.

Preceding this agreement, however, was what Carlos Garcia, president of Garcia Sugars corporation, termed "the result of a market raid by short sellers."

"Shorts Repeatedly Warned."

"The shorts were warned repeatedly," he declared, "that by selling on the exchange at ridiculously low prices they were virtually raiding the market and tempting Cuba to dump her quota here at any price."

Instead, the agreement was entered into which placed the shorts in trouble and the longs in a very favorable position. The "squeeze" situation was aggravated by the announcement by the AAA at Washington that Cuba's sugar quota had been filled.

Speculators with advance knowledge of these developments through sources of information at Washington were in a position to profit immensely, observers have pointed out.

An even more serious situation confronts the sugar trade after Jan. 1, it was learned. December's "squeeze" may be quickly followed by a marked collapse in January.

Hold White House Confabs.

It was learned that several White House conferences have been held to consider government action to prevent a break in the domestic sugar market when bonded sugars in excess of the various 1934 import quotas will be released to the trade.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Wallace, Undersecretary of Agriculture Tugwell, various AAA advisers and members of the adjustment administration's sugar section took part in these conferences, it was learned.

The President was presented with information, it was reported, tending to show that the release of bonded sugars in excess of the 1934 quotas on Jan. 1, when the new 1935 quotas become effective, will flood the domestic market, thereby assuring virtual collapse of the sugar price structure.

In addition, importers are expecting outside areas to rush shipments to the continental United States immediately after the first of the year, thereby giving added impetus to the greatly feared price decline.

Admit Speculation Faults.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Department of agriculture officials admitted today that the operations of the New Deal's sugar allotment law, known as the Jones-Costigan act, had led to speculation such as was emphasized recently by the Cuban corner.

Under the provisions of the Jones-Costigan act, the secretary of agriculture arbitrarily decides what the consumption of sugar shall be and fixes quotas for the producing countries accordingly, both domestic and foreign. It developed that there was no December sugar deliverable except that produced in Cuba, all other producers, including Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines, having exhausted their quotas. Cuban growers had contracts for delivery at 2.18 cents a pound, and many speculators, having sold short, or below this figure, were caught.

Complaint Hearing Set on AAA Allotments

A public hearing on complaints to proposed sugar beet acreage allotments under the Agricultural Adjustment administration will be held Dec. 28 at 9:30 a. m. in the Blackstone hotel, it was announced yesterday. C. J. Gifford will preside. According to the proposal, producers of sugar beets will make contracts with the government by which they will restrict their planted acreage in return for benefit payments.

PWA REPEATS OFFER TO HELP POWER PLANTS

Ready to Aid with Court Fights.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The public works administration today checked over allotments of 47 million dollars already made for municipal power plants and renewed an offer to assist cities whose projects of this kind were challenged in the courts.

An active agency in the administration's campaign for lower electricity rates, the PWA disclosed also that nearly 200 million dollars has been allotted to federal power works.

Henry T. Hunt, general counsel, coincidentally named nine cases in which power companies had attacked as many cities' determination to build their own power plants. In two cases the cities and PWA won victories and the plants have been completed, he said.

One Project Held Up.

One project has been held up. In two instances judges have refused to dismiss the power companies' suits. Arguments are being taken in the others.

In checking over the municipal power plant court cases, Hunt said an appeal would be taken in the case in which the Missouri Public Service company had enjoined sale to the PWA of bonds for a $315,000 project. Hunt contended that the effect of the district judge's decision was to deny the federal government the right to finance municipal projects, whether for power or otherwise.

PWA Gains Michigan Victory.

One of PWA's victories was gained in October when the Supreme court refused to review a case brought against Allegan, Mich., by the Consumers' Power company.

The company had obtained an injunction against building the $410,000 plant which was reversed by the Court of Appeals. The highest court found in effect that if the company had a "legal injury," it was inflicted by the constitution of Michigan, which authorized municipalities to operate power plants.

Public Works officials have made no secret that they expected the proposed municipal power plant in New York City to face a court test if the project was approved. They saw an indication that PWA was not impressed by the threat of litigation in a grant last week of $320,000 to Columbus, O., for a power house and the loan and grant of $97,000 to Lamoni, Ia., for a municipal plant.

Simultaneously Secretary of Interior Ickes said PWA was "seriously considering" applications from several other cities in addition to that submitted tentatively by Mayor La Guardia.

CHARGES U. S. IS PUT INTO LEAGUE BY SEC. PERKINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Representative George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts today accused Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins of "contemptible trickery and gross fraud." The charge was made in connection with the passage of the resolution by congress making the United States a member of the international labor organization.

REP. GEORGE H. TINKHAM.

Tinkham charged that this entry is merely a wedge to get the United States in the league of nations and that the administration is already planning to join the world court, as the next step in that direction.

Congressman Tinkham said the joint resolution was slipped through in the last days of the 73d congress, without any hearings and on representations from the secretary of labor that the labor organization was not a part of the league of nations.

"Time Cunningly Chosen."

"By trickery and fraud on the part of the secretary of labor the United States has entered the league of nations," Tinkham charged. "The time for this base betrayal of the independence and of the vital interests of the United States was cunningly chosen.

"The joint resolution providing for the membership of the United States in the international labor organization at Geneva, the establishment of which is provided for in part XIII. of the treaty of Versailles, was introduced in both the senate and the house just before adjournment. No hearings were held on the resolution by the senate and house committees reporting the resolution. No witnesses appeared before the committees. A quorum was not present when the committees voted to report the measure. The resolution passed the senate without debate or explanation and without a roll call. The discussion of the resolution in the house was limited to forty minutes—and was passed by a margin of four votes, obtained under the lash of the administration whip.

Quotes Secretary's Message.

"All that was presented to the committees or to the house in support of the resolution was a letter from the secretary of labor which, among other things, stated: 'The organization is not even now an integral part of the league of nations, and membership in the organization does not imply affiliation with the league.'

"This statement is the grossest perversion of the truth. It is squarely contrary to the facts—facts established by an indelible record, the treaty of Versailles. The statement contained in the letter of the secretary of labor was intended to deceive. The secretary knew that the congress of the United States was opposed to entry into the league of nations and would not vote for entry knowingly. Entry was therefore made surreptitiously and fraudulently.

What Treaty Provides.

"Article 392 of the treaty of Versailles states:

"'The international labor office shall be established at the seat of the league of nations as part of the organization of the league.'

"The cost to the United States of membership in the international organization is $250,000 a year, almost all of which will be paid to aliens. Special arrangements have been made for the payment of this amount by the United States direct to the international labor organization.

"This audacious intrigue to have the United States enter the league of nations by way of one of the organs of the league is to be followed by an attempt to have the United States enter another of its organs, the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations, this subsequently to be followed by a proposal of full membership in the league of nations. Thus, the independence of the United States will be destroyed, the will of the American people thwarted, and the United States inevitably involved in the next European conflict."

THOMAS CALLS PARLEY OF INFLATIONISTS DURING NEXT MONTH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A conference to unite inflationists behind a program has been called here for Jan. 16.

Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.], one of those behind the move, said farm organizations, the Sound Money league, the committee for the nation, and members of the senate and house would participate in the conference. In the evening there will be a banquet for inflation advocates in congress.

"I think that the objective will be the 1926 price level," he said. "These groups are not for cheap money or uncontroled inflation. They are for a sound and adequate dollar of the buying power of 1926, wholly controled and rational."

$5,870,000 RATE CUTS REPORTED BY ILLINOIS C. C.

Predicts Further Savings During Next Year.

A report from the Illinois commerce commission setting forth the commission's activities in 1934 was transmitted yesterday to Gov. Henry Horner by Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer.

Among other things, Chairman Lindheimer makes the claim that the year's total savings to utility rate payers, resulting from the commission's orders, totaled $5,873,754. These orders in the main involved reductions in gas, electric, telephone, and transportation rates.

These savings, the document asserts, in all likelihood will continue through 1935. The commission claims that of the total of downward revisions, only $268,437 represented reductions voluntarily agreed to by some utilities in informal conferences called by the commission.

Some of the existing reductions are experimental, and may be made permanent in the coming year.

One large experimental order of this type is the electric rate revision ruling against the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. This order is said to have netted to the domestic users of the utility annual savings of $1,300,000.

The report, 175 pages long, tells of supervising the issuance of utility securities after the Samuel Insull financial collapse.

"Our first inquiries indicated that complete critical investigations into the operating expenses and fixed capital of many large utilities had not been made for many years," stated the report.

"We then cited 27 companies rendering practically all of the electric service in the state. Where voluntary reductions were not agreed to, formal proceedings were started in cases where the evidence clearly indicated a reduction could be made.

"Most of the abuses of utility operations arose through the control exercised by the holding companies over operating utilities and through investments made by operating companies."

The document asks for an appropriation for expenses. It says that for the next biennial period it will need $1,350,000.

In summary, the report recommends legislation [1] to give the commission broader power over depreciation allowances and reserves of utilities, [2] to permit investigation expenses charged against utilities to be put into a revolving fund for use in further inquiries, and [3] to enlarge the commission's authority to authorize experimental rate and service orders.

GEORGE V. PLEADS FOR FRATERNAL SPIRIT IN EMPIRE

Warns of Anxieties to Be Met in Christmas Talk.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—To bushmen in Australia, home folks in Canada, black men in Africa, white togaed brown men in India—wherever British peoples were able to set up a radio receiver—King George V. of Great Britain spoke from his country home at Sandringham today.

In a quiet, slow voice, frequently broken by a cough, the king delivered a paternal message to his "peoples beyond the seas," adjuring them to remember that they all belonged to one great family.

Urges Fraternal Spirit.

"My desire and hope is that the same spirit of brotherhood may become ever stronger in its hold and wider in its range," the king said. "The world is still restless and troubled. The clouds are lifting, but we have still our own anxieties to meet. I am convinced that if we meet them in the spirit of one family we shall overcome them, for then private and party interests will be controled by care for the whole community."

He made a special effort to reach the restless multitudes in India, whose fate now is in the hands of parliament, by assuring them of his "constant care of them." He expressed a desire "that they, too, may ever more fully realize and value their own place in the unity of one family."

Empire Chrismas Greetings.

For an hour before the king spoke the people of the British Isles heard Christmas greetings from various ports of the empire. A bugle call and a British officer's voice came from Khyber pass on the border of Afghanistan after a 1,000 mile transmission by land wire.

Eight thousand natives of South Africa, to the boom of war drums, shouted, "Bayete, Bayete, Bayete," a cry reserved for kings, and from Canada came the voice of a fisherman.

New Zealand obliged by having a dairyman and a whaling fisher broadcast greetings which were relayed all over the empire, and Australia had the tollkeeper of the Sydney bridge speak a little piece. A tea planter in southern India also took part.

After the king's speech "God Save the King" was sung by men in Australia, Canada, and Africa, each taking a verse.

The king's speech was the biggest event in the British celebration of Christmas, which was the gayest in recent years due to returning optimism. There was plenty of carol singing on the streets of London the last few nights and kilted highlanders filled the air with the music of bagpipes.

JAP PARLIAMENT OPENS; FACED BY LARGEST BUDGET

TOKIO, Dec. 26 (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito presided today at ceremonies formally opening the regular annual session of the Japanese parliament. The principal task confronting the legislators was rubber-stamp approval of the largest budget and the first billion yen defense appropriation in the history of the empire. [The yen is quoted at 29 cents.] The parliament seldom dares amend the budget.

With the opening of parliament a political truce, which has lasted during the fortnight since the rising of the emergency session called to vote a farm relief budget, will be momentarily suspended. The real work of the session will begin about Jan. 20, when the legislators, their long New Year's holiday ended, troop back to work.

The emperor drove the few blocks from his palace today in a glittering procession of cavalry and horse-drawn vehicles to read the proclamation opening the session. After the two houses —representatives and peers—return a suitable reply to the throne, the New Year holidays will begin. The new session was the 67th of the parliament, or diet, in its 45 years of history.

Jeweler Shot to Death at Christmas Drinking Party

Rex Pyle, 38 years old, identified by the police as a jeweler at 215 East 26th street, was shot and killed last night in the home of Fred Feiner, 40 years old, at 5243 South Racine avenue, apparently during a Christmas drinking party. Answering a call from neighbors, Stockyards police found Pyle's body on the living room floor, a bullet through the heart. A pistol lay beside him. In the room were Feiner and his wife, Emma. Glasses and a partially empty bottle were in the room. Police said the Feiners were unable to give a coherent account of the killing.

DIES IN CRASH.

Duquoin, Ill., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Harry Rice, 26, Duquoin, was killed today when his car collided with a Belleville Coal service truck on route 152, three miles west of here. The truck driver, whose name was not learned, received only minor injuries.

MOSCOW CRACKS DOWN ON SOVIET SCHOOL HERETICS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—The Communist drive against the remnants of the old Trotzky-Zinoviev opposition to Dictator Josef Stalin has taken a new direction with a demand for the purging of all such elements from the faculties of soviet schools and colleges. Both school and local communist party authorities in some cases are accused of laxness in permitting oppositionists to filter in and teach counter revolutionary ideas.

One professor named Vladimirov is specifically charged with making many highly subversive statements in the course of a two hour lecture at the Graduate Agricultural college at Rostov, Dec. 7. He is alleged to have denied the Lenin theory of a bourgeois—democratic revolution would evolve into a Socialist revolution and declared the Bolshevik revolution had given the peasantry nothing beyond nationalization of land. Among other heresies he defended Leon Trotzky's view that the peasantry as a whole is reactionary.

It developed today the regional committee of the communist party had approved the invitation of Prof. Vladimirov to lecture at the college though he had been expelled from the party for Trotzky sympathies in 1928.

Alleged laxity at Dniepropetrovsk in Ukraine has caused the removal of the head of the city party committee and his aide and other officials. It is charged they did nothing when the presence of Trotzkyist and nationalist elements in the faculty of Dniepropetrovsk university was pointed out to them. A similar situation was reported at Kursk in the central Russian plateau.

Pravda Urges Cleanup.

Today Pravda, organ of the communist party, called for a cleanup and warned that class enemies having failed to make headway in any other manner were insinuating themselves into positions where they could corrupt soviet youth.

No information was available today on the status of Gregory Zinoviev, Leo Kamenev or others arrested as oppositionists nor was there further word of Leonard Nikolieff, held as the assassin of the soviet leader, Sergei Kirov.

SEIZED AS BANK ROBBER.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Ennis Smiddy, under indictment by the federal government for robbery of the Peoples National bank at Kingfisher, Okla., last May, was captured by a posse of thirteen federal, county, and city officers as he observed Christmas at the home of his father, S. E. Smiddy, near Waurika today.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Mae Clarke, motion picture beauty, who last June suffered her second nervous breakdown within a few years, returned to Hollywood today looking completely recovered and in the jolliest of spirits. Since her breakdown Miss Clarke has been in seclusion, first at a sanatorium and then at Palm Springs.

FRANCE DELAYS STAND AGAINST NAVAL TREATIES

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two French cabinet ministers agreed today to postpone public announcement of France's "hands free" naval limitation policy.

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Naval Minister Francois Pietri made the postponement a sort of Christmas present to the naval world hoping that France's temporary silence would contribute to a better international atmosphere.

The attitude they intend eventually to announce is one of opposition to the present system of naval parity under the Washington and London treaties. They claim it has been France's greatest source of irritation in her relations with Italy. They seek a treaty based upon the actual defensive needs of each country. They also would have a clause by which naval programs would be announced a year in advance.

PING-PONG BAT SPEEDS EVANSTON BURGLAR ON WAY

John T. Downey, 30 years old, and his brothers, Jerome, 18 years old, and Richard, 20 years old, were playing ping-pong last night in their home, 907 Ridge avenue, Evanston, when John heard a sound in the basement and went down to investigate. He found a window broken and snowy tracks leading up the stairway.

Running upstairs he found an armed burglar on the second floor. John shouted to his brothers, and each one guarded an entrance to the house. The burglar ran down the stairs and out the front door where John was stationed, brandishing his gun and threatening to shoot.

John let him pass, then hurled his ping-pong paddle. The paddle cracked against the prowler's head and broke, but he continued running, and escaped. No loot was taken.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Carlos Arenas Layza, youthful premier-designate, today formed a cabinet to replace that of Premier Alfredo Rey de Castro, which resigned last week. In the new government Arenas holds the portfolios of justice, education, and religion, in addition to the premiership.

CITE PHILIPPINES AS GREAT SOURCE OF WAR MATERIAL

Senators Issue Report on Chromite Deposits.

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Philippine Islands possess the "most important source of war material under the American flag," the United States senatorial mission declared today in a memorandum released by Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Evidences of chromite deposits so huge they have already attracted the attention of other nations were cited by John W. Haussermann, wealthy dean of the islands' gold mining industry.

He said the reports of "very conservative engineers" are that the deposits, situated in Zambales province, may shortly take their "place as one of the most important ore bodies in the world and the most important available source of chromite under the American flag."

Haussermann pointed out that "chromium is the one war material which the United States does not have in ample quantities within its borders."

Needs U. S. for Stability.

The Philippine gold magnite urged the maintenance of present trade relations as far as possible as a means of reciprocity in maintaining the islands' stability.

He said otherwise economic collapse is likely, which would mean "likewise the end of domestic political tranquility and consequently the ultimate domination of the Philippines by Japan."

Haussermann explained the Philippine deposits were discovered soon after the Tydings-McDuffie independence act was drafted.

He declared the United States government has a large reservation of undeveloped chromium in Zambales province and that the Haussermann companies have entered into an operating contract to develop nearby private claims.

Philippine gold production is mounting steadily, Haussermann reported, and probably will be worth $11,000,000 this year, as compared with Alaska's $8,000,000 yield last year.

Bids for Better Trade.

A Christmas day bid for permanent economic and cultural partnership of the Philippines and the United States was made by Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate.

His plea was made while host at his home at a dinner for members of the United States senatorial commission to study Philippine economic conditions. Governor General Frank Murphy and prominent Americans and Filipinos of the islands were other guests.

"If Filipinos are to continue able to buy American goods, for which they have a preference, the American market must remain open to Philippine goods," Quezon said, in urging that trade reciprocity continue after insular independence, expected about 1945.

To Seek Divorce

MRS. ERNEST THOMPSON SETON.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, author, traveler, and lecturer, stated today that she would file counter claims for divorce in Mexico or Connecticut against her husband, of Santa Fe, N. J., who has brought divorce proceedings against his wife in Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Seton are among the best known authors and lecturers on natural subjects in America. The husband's works contain revelations of animal life never suspected before, and as such are the delight of the heart of every boy who has access to them. He told of the homing instincts of the cat, of the faithfulness of the goose, the honesty of the fox, and the common sense of the caribou.

COLORED YOUTH CAPTURED AFTER OFFICER'S DEATH

Ellaville, Ga., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A 17 year old colored youth hunted as the slayer of Chief of Police W. B. Souter was captured in the swamps near here tonight. The Muscogee county jailer at Columbus, Ga., reported later that the prisoner had been brought there for safekeeping.

Sherif E. C. Rigsby, who led the arresting posse, said the youth had Chief Souter's pistol and told him after questioning that he shot the officer. The sherif added that the pistol contained two cartridges but said the fugitive made no attempt to resist.

Track dogs led the posse to the youth's hiding place. Officers estimated that as many as a thousand persons also joined in the hunt since Chief Souter was shot Christmas eve while attempting to make an arrest.

Officers listed the captured youth as Charlie Dodson.

JOHN COLEMAN, MISS FRIEDMAN WED AFTER PARTY

John E. Coleman, 23 years old, of 5100 Ellis avenue, and Miss Marjorie Friedman, 22 years old, of Winnetka, were married shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning in Waukegan. County Clerk Lew A. Hendee, awakened by the young couple, issued a license. Justice of the Peace Henry F. Wallenwein performed the ceremony. The marriage followed a Christmas eve dance at the Standard club.

Miss Friedman is the daughter of Miles L. Friedman of 854 Prospect avenue, Winnetka. Young Coleman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Coleman, was graduated from the Harvard School for Boys, at 4731 Ellis avenue, and attended Dartmouth college.

Coleman, then a boy 13 years old, was originally chosen as a murder victim by Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, according to their confession. Because Coleman was late in arriving at a place where he could be abducted, the two killers picked up Bobbie Franks, for whose murder the two are now serving life sentences in prison.

DECLARES CITY'S BAN ON GAMBLING IS BEING OBEYED

Despite the fact that the horses were running on five tracks throughout the country yesterday, Capt. Martin Mullen of the gambling detail declared that Monday's closing order was still being obeyed, and all gambling establishments in the city were closed.

"Even the bookies who customarily evade such orders by moving from one place to another are not operating," he said.

Half the police force was on Christmas furlough and some of the smaller "books," it was believed, may have taken advantage of the lessened watchfulness to do a little business. Raids had been ordered on all violators of the close order, but late last night none had been reported.

Oh HO!... and you're STILL filled to the brim and don't want NAWTHIN to eat? Well we'll fix THAT! You come and take one B/G look and it'll look so good . . . Christmas'll seem a year ago away.

"Frankly Puzzled," Says Expert

"Couldn't believe a car as good as this 1935 Dodge could be built for less than $1,000," says department store buyer.

"When I got my first glimpse of the new Dodge for 1935, I felt sure it must be a fairly high-priced car," says Ed Studwell, of New York, buyer for one of America's largest department stores. "When I learned that it will actually cost so little, I was frankly puzzled — couldn't see how such a fine car could be built for such a low price."

Mr. Studwell certainly knows value —but he is only one of many experts who have been amazed to learn all that the new-value Dodge for 1935 offers—at such a sensational low price. Watch for it!

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

AGUINALDO IS RIGHT.

Aguinaldo as host to members of the United States senate Philippines mission urged again his proposal that the interim period between the establishment of a native government under its own constitution and the new era of complete independence be shortened. The law provides for a ten year turnover period from the inauguration of such a government.

Senator Tydings remonstrated, saying that many difficulties would beset the new republic and that the best thought would be none too good to provide for the future of the islands.

Of the two men, Aguinaldo is the better friend of the United States, whatever his intentions may be. The American senators, if Tydings speaks for all of them, are verging toward romantic nonsense. Philippine independence must mean independence. It has been granted at the request of Filipino leaders and in keeping with pledges long ago made. It may be for good or bad, but that concerns the Filipinos.

When their independence has become a reality they should be no more to the United States than any other aliens. Their troubles are their own, or should be. If the United States does not remove itself physically and morally from all entanglement in the future of these people it will be very foolish. It has endeavored to cut itself loose from Cuba, where many real interests lay. It must, to be wise, do a better job of getting loose in the Philippines.

Whatever benefits the Filipinos have received from the United States, and they were intended to be many, are now in a book which cannot be closed too quickly. As soon as they can form their government they will have what they said they wanted. The moral responsibility ceases. They become nothing more to the United States than the inhabitants of any other native state.

A GOVERNMENT PLANNED RAILWAY.

"The National Resources board has recommended planning ahead for public works, including the improvement of transportation."—News item. Now let us tell a story of "planned" transportation.

In the closing decade of the last century western Canada was showing sensational gains in the production of wheat year after year. Horticultural experts were constantly producing new seed requiring shorter maturing periods so as to utilize fertile lands in territories formerly regarded as useless because of the limited growing season. Producing wheat in tremendous quantities even within the arctic circle was considered not only as a possibility but a certainty.

Inadequate transportation in the future was conjured up by alarmists who pointed to the single line of railway and seasonal navigation on the Great Lakes as the inevitable bottleneck that would retard western Canadian progress. A futuristic railroad was planned; one that would transport wheat from Winnipeg to Quebec City, a distance of thirteen hundred miles, for five cents per bushel. Construction was completed within ten years at a cost, as usual, considerably more than double the original estimate.

The completed facility was a splendid piece of railway engineering, although marred to a certain extent by political "necessities." No grades in excess of four-tenths of 1 per cent were permitted. At intervals of seven miles wilderness stations were constructed that would do credit to a town of a thousand people. At each station there was a passing siding a full mile in length to accommodate one hundred car trains. A division yard was provided for each one hundred miles of main line with necessary power house, car shop, roundhouse, machine shop, office accommodation for a general superintendent and staf, coal trestle, water tower, station freight shed, and icehouse.

At these terminals the political considerations showed themselves to best advantage. A power plant housed a stationary steam engine of adequate capacity to furnish power to drive a dynamo which, in turn, transmitted energy to the motorized machine shop. Each lathe, boring mill, and even the grindstone, had its purring little motor. The coal chute, on the other hand, was operated by air. According to plan, a car of coal delivered at the power house by a switch engine would be consumed by the stationary engine to drive the dynamo. The dynamo, in turn, would furnish the necessary electrical energy to drive an air pump. The air pump, in its turn, would supply compression to a cylinder to haul a second car of coal up the trestle to fuel the locomotive. Whether the load delivered the engine's tender exceeded the coal consumption of the stationary engine was a matter of no moment. The operation would be economical—if a coal mine could be located under each terminal.

The completed railway, after lying idle for a matter of seven years, was finally pressed into operation by the government to save further deterioration. Needless to say the road has never been used for the purpose intended. And so it remains, a monument to government planned transportation; too valuable to be junked and too expensive to maintain.

LOUISIANA'S EXHIBIT A.

There's more to Huey Long than meets the eye, improbable or impossible as that may seem. Huey hires and fires coaches and bandmasters, pushes the legislature around, has the president of the state university brush his hat and the governor brush his shoes and makes laws by thumbing his nose. He does so with the apparent consent of a majority of the people of Louisiana who elect legislators and judges, congressmen and state officials. He isn't something that came out of a bayou. He came out of the ballot box.

Long is government as created by the votes of the people in the exercise of democratic suffrage. He is not the first of his kind and he is not the only one. He may be the noisiest at present, but he isn't truly a museum piece, the one and only royal nonesuch, the genuine camelopard winterling in the jungles of Borneo and spending its summer with the aurora borealis. Huey is the end result of American politics when it gets going wrong and, American government being derived from American politics, no project of government ever can be insured against administration by such hands. Even Lloyd's wouldn't take the risk.

Every governmental enterprise must include within its possibilities the dominance of such a man as Long. Another one may not be so anxious to call attention to himself. He may not want to be always in the window making faces or always in the street making noises, but in true character he may not be much different otherwise. In every affair of government the risk must be accepted that at one time or another some cheer leader, dervish, clown, or seventh son of a seventh son will get possession and use all his talents to the public misery and be sustained by the public votes.

Nearly all the hopeful planners decline to consider or concede this. The probable intrusion of the mountebank or of the shrewder scoundrel is not admitted into the calculations, fateful as has been the experience of one community after another, in which the fascinations and charms of the wrong man have been irresistible.

The probability will not be considered even when it is apparent to all that if the ambitious schemes were otherwise sound, as they seldom are, they would depend wholly upon the discovery in politics of persons superior to the conditions which produce them, joining almost infallible judgment to a sublimity of character.

To these expectations the answer is Huey.

A PRINCE WALKS OUT.

The most ardent republicanism will not repress a throb of gratitude for the royal rebuke administered a hostess in Paris who kept a Bourbon prince waiting for his dinner till after nine while her other guests arrived at their leisure and filled themselves with cocktails. "Excuse me, madame," said the famished prince, departing, "it is 9:30, and in France nobody eats at such an hour."

At that high moment royalty stood again, as it has so often in the long past, with the common man. The circulation of L'Action Française went up the next day, we will wager. Prince Rene has struck a brave blow and we hope it will resound as far as the valley at Concord bridge.

In democratic America nobody eats at 9:30 unless he has been invited out. The tired business man who must wait until that time may fill himself with the crude violence of cocktails, but after that process he ought to go home and would if his domestic government would permit. Guests who have swallowed cocktails and forced chatter long after and in defiance of their normal dinner time and habit are in no state to respond to the supposed requirements of civilized social intercourse. To offer guests the artistry of a chef of the first water and the wit and beauty of the most brilliantly selected table companions is as futile as to invite a blind man into an art gallery.

The outrage against which the Bourbon prince revolted was more excessive than is common in the society of our gilded bourgeoisie, but we have much to amend. The cocktail has been justified as first aid to the hard working American male. But, sinking as he may be, too many life belts will submerge, not save, him, and too long waiting for his food will leave him in a state from which no social blandishment can charm him.

Too many cocktails and too many late arriving guests destroy the civilized possibilities of any normal individual, and both have become an accepted accompaniment of American entertainment. We have no royalty to lead for a restoration of humane manners and our merchant princes are timid men. Our only hope, and it is faint, must lie in what our forbears quaintly called the gentle sex. It is the Great American Hostess who must be moved to soften her decree.

Editorial of the Day

THE ELECTION RETURNS ANALYZED.

[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

Although the state and congressional election is more than six weeks gone, the managers of the Republican campaign in Illinois are still extracting considerable comfort from the fact that outside of Cook county the candidates on the Republican ticket received a majority of the votes.

Chairman Justus L. Johnson filed in Springfield a few days ago a final analysis of the downstate vote, drawing several items of encouragement therefrom. He said that Sangamon county was the banner county of the state in the number of Republican votes cast. This he regards as remarkable since the county is the seat of the state Democratic administration. As to the state as a whole, outside of Chicago, the result of Republican majorities is considered more notable in the face of the Democratic control of patronage and immense public funds to be used for political effect. Johnson declared: "Briefly stated, downstate Illinois retained all of her Republican sitting congressmen and added one in the Bloomington district—elected seven state senators out of ten contested districts—lost only one member in the lower house of the state legislature as compared to the membership of the last session of the general assembly—to say nothing of hundreds of county officers newly elected, or returned to office, in most of the counties in all parts of the state. All of which was accomplished as a result of loyal Republican workers laboring in the ranks of the party without thought of political reward, and with extremely meager campaign funds available. It is an outstanding example of Illinois Republicanism."

In downstate, Stelle received 710,670; Stratton, 710,117; Wieland, 687,055; Blair, 693,384; Igoe, 680,110; Brennan, 671,084; Brooks, 688,544, and Jones, 654,142. Stratton carried 51 counties, Wieland 51 counties, Stelle 50 counties, and Blair 50 counties.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S A BIG IMPROVEMENT.

Do not use harsh, excited language when you step on the cunning toys that Junior got for Christmas when you go out to the icebox at night in your stocking feet. Stepping on a toy automobile or a miniature electrical train or a tiny airplane that flops all over the place is not altogether a delightful experience, but remember that a few years ago the only toys considered fit and proper for a small boy were things that breathed of war. Often they were little soldiers usually made in Germany of tin or lead, and, being modeled after German soldiers, they had spikes on the tops of their cunning little helmets, and, like all soldiers in any land, they had guns with cunning little bayonets on them. To prowl around in the dark and put a foot with nothing but a lisle thread covering on it down right hard on a row of cunning little tin soldiers is like stepping on a porcupine. This machine age is distressing in many ways, but since it lessens the chances of our getting our bare feet stuck full of toy soldiers, we must admit it has its redeeming features. Of course stepping on an electrical train or a toy automobile is not pleasant, because the darned things have wheels on them and they slide out from under your foot. Still with a little practice you get the trick of sitting down suddenly without too much of a shock. And remember, too, when you are sitting quietly in your chair reading and the toy airplane soaks you in the ear, that, while the machine age is responsible for it, at the same time it is not as bad being soaked in the ear by a toy airplane as it was to sit and listen to the demoniacal beating of the toy drums which used to be an invariable present. There was some kind of law about it. No, say what you will, there is much less suffering now, much less of human misery, pain, and anguish in the toys of today than there were in those of the years gone by.

HIGHLAND BORN.

The lad who is born with the pounding sea
Marking the rhythm of birth,
Reared where the wind's diastole
Answers the pulse of the earth,
Will dwell an alien in valley land,
Longing for scenes he can understand.

The lad who has lived where sea and sky
Color the colorless stone,
Patterned dreams to paths that are high—
Paths that are traveled alone—
Will walk through the village, a man apart,
Having strange knowledge of God in his heart.

L. W. G.

AND I MUST personally thank Mr. Farley, the w. k. postmaster general, for the safe delivery of my most valued Christmas presents from points as remote as Washington, Charleston, New York, and Colorado. Not a single package was leaking.

"JUDGE FREES Fifteen Husbands from Alimony Cells."—Headline. Men, another year is about to spread out before us. A year blossoming with hope for our cause. This alimony thing, which rests like a millstone on the shoulders of so many of our number, must be removed. Let us shout our slogan, "Equal Rights for Men," and press on to victory. And some day we shall attain what we seek—full equality with women. Up, men, up and onward!

IN DEFENSE OF BEAUTY.

They may hump up your shoulders,
And paste you on a book,
And cruelly never give a darn
As how you chance to look . . .

Your eyes may be pants buttons
And your eyebrows corded wool . . .
But yet in spite of camouflage

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

AND IT'S SUGGESTED that if Chicago can't organize as a separate state and escape the downstate legislators that way, the city could be incorporated as a part of Indiana or Wisconsin. Oh, not Indiana; think of having to sing "On the Banks of the Wabash Far Away." Wisconsin would be rather nice; it has so many pretty lakes and nice places to go in summer.

AND BEFORE the Linebook entirely disappears from the busy marts of trade it is only right and proper, after all the fuss and excitement over the thing, to say that Eolus, who won the prize winning introduction contest for this year's Linebook, is Dr. E. O. Laughlin of Paris, Ill. He has contributed for many years to the Line o' Type or Two and his poems frequently appear in top-drawer magazines. Thanks, many thanks, Eolus. Congratulations, Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, and good luck! What does he receive for his prize winning introduction? Well, there he is, printed just inside the cover, for one thing, and for another and far lesser reward he is going to receive one of the new Linebooks all dolled up, bound in half calf (with the tail inside), and tooled and gilded and all sorts of fancy doodads on it. Golly.

CITY CAT.

Small soot-nosed cat of city sills,
Content in tepid city sun,
What can you know of frothy milk
That's deep and warm when milking's done?

Do your astonished whiskers twitch
At dreams of field-mice in deep grass?
You, versed in colored traffic lights
That blink and let a proud cat pass.

If I should take you would you learn
New joys in country air and loam,
Or trot back anxious miles to find
This certain alley that is home?

LILA TERRY.

WINTER ITCH.

THE human skin is an important part of the body and serves as an indispensable protective covering of the muscles. It is also an organ of excretion, getting rid of many waste products that would otherwise add to the load carried by the kidneys, the lungs, and the intestinal tract. It is so richly supplied with blood vessels and nerves that it quickly advises its possessor of injury, inflammation, and disease.

The symptom of itching is one of the most common characteristics of a skin disorder. There are so many varieties of itch that both diagnosis and treatment are often puzzling. Essentially the symptom is caused by an irritation of the skin by dust, flour, soap, cosmetics, chemicals, silver and brass polish, hair dyes, fur dyes, petroleum products, and other substances. Bacteria and microscopic plant and animal parasites may also cause a mild or severe skin irritation (dermatitis) attended with itching.

A fairly common manifestation of itching occurs in certain persons during the winter months (pruritus hiemalis). It appears usually in those past middle life and begins in the autumn and continues for the duration of cold weather. Some of the symptoms suggest scabies and the disease is often mistaken for this parasitic infestation. Sulphur treatment, however, will prove ineffective and the physician is required to look elsewhere for both the cause and the remedy. The itching is particularly vicious at night after the clothes are removed.

The eruption may cover the entire body, with the exception of the head, the face, and the hands, and the calves of the legs are favored localities, both legs being attacked at the same time. In the beginning the skin may appear normal; that is, there may be no evidence of an eruption, although unusual dryness is noted. Later the skin becomes rough, harsh, and scaly. Many of the hair follicles show signs of inflammation and occasionally the skin in general appears red and irritated as though it had been briskly rubbed or scratched.

Scratching complicates the condition and because of the violence of the symptoms the skin will often show furrows where the finger nails have infected certain areas.

The cause appears to be somewhat allied to chilblains, but without the destruction of skin capillaries that attends that condition. The drying effect of cold plus a reduction in the activity of the skin glands may be sufficient to account for the symptoms.

W. J. MacDonald believes that routine remedies, such as carbolic acid or menthol, are ineffective. Although the physician can prescribe something for the amelioration of symptoms, relief is but temporary and the effect of the drug used, as we say, "wears out." In MacDonald's experience the best results follow the use of ultraviolet light or X-ray, or both. In many of his cases he found that two weeks of such treatment was adequate. The use of these physical agents was sufficient to cause an artificial reddening of the skin with some scaling. A hot bath taken at bedtime, the water containing one-half teacupful of baking soda, often gives relief. Woolen underwear is not recommended, as it frequently adds to the irritation. In some individuals change to a warmer climate appears to be the only plan that will afford relief.

Prevention consists in frequent bathing to keep the pores of the skin well open, and lightly rubbing the skin, particularly of the thighs, legs, and feet, with sterile olive oil, coconut oil, or lanolin. If the skin rapidly absorbs fat such substances may be used twice daily.

Woodsmen and those who are subject to long exposure to cold have learned that anointing the skin, particularly of the feet, with a bit of tallow is a great help in preventing not only winter itch but chilblains and frostbite.

LIVING WITH DIABETES.

Mrs. O. P. writes: I am taking care of my 14 year old daughter, who has had diabetes since she was 7 years old. She is taking insulin three times daily and eats normally. At table strangers would not know she is a diabetic unless we tell them. She eats as does the rest of the family, but of course she does not take much sugar, potatoes, etc. She is a perfectly happy child, goes to school, enjoys vacations and parties, and occasionally eats a piece of cake, a cookie, ice cream, etc.

Sometimes I am asked if I don't weigh food any more. I am just as careful as the day she came back from the hospital, but I am familiar with food values and can measure her food without making her life full of "don'ts." She has never been back to the hospital from the day she left there seven years ago. Since then she has been unconscious only twice, once from insulin shock and the second time from a mental shock. I am very careful not to let her blood sugar get too low, and also about regularity in general hygiene.

I thought some of your readers might be interested in my experience.

REPLY.

An intelligent mother and a well managed case. Were it not for insulin, however, this story could not have been told. There is every reason to believe that this young lady will continue to live a happy, normal life.

CANCER OF STOMACH.

E. M. writes: How can a person tell if he has cancer of the stomach? Could it be taken out if in the first stages?

REPLY.

A physician can make the diagnosis by means of test meals and X-ray plates. A fairly extensive cancer of the stomach can be removed. Whether or not the growth recurs will depend somewhat upon its age and extent.

BENEFICIARY UNDER WILL.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What is the law in Illinois regarding the length of time a "will" must be held for the appearance of one of its beneficiaries who is not in this country and who is supposed to be dead? 2. If said beneficiary has gone under an alias while gone how can this be proven to be the same person the "will" calls for so that "share" can be cleared? 3. Can the next beneficiaries [if first one is dead] discharge administrator of above "will" and place another in first one's place? 4. What is the lawful fee the first administrator can charge then for work done? 5. The next beneficiaries would be aunts and uncles of the dead beneficiary, so does that mean only those living or also the families of deceased aunts and uncles? F. X.

1. In absence of other proof, a person would be presumed dead after seven years' unexplained absence.

2. Introduce the evidence that is available.

3. The personal representative that is named in a will is called an executor. No basis for removal appears on the bare facts that you state.

4. The Illinois statute says not over six per cent of the personal property.

5. We cannot construe the will on such a point without having its wording before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like some information about the electoral college. 1. How and [2] when are the electors chosen? 3. How long do they serve as electors? 4. Besides electing the President have they any other duties? 5. There is another matter that is not quite clear to me. I have always been under the impression that United States senators and representatives are elected for four year terms, but find that the senators are elected for six years and the representative for two years. Which is right? J. L.

1. By the voters of the various states in the manner provided by state law.

2. At the time of the presidential election.

3. Since their only function is to elect a president, we do not understand the meaning of your question.

4. No. We suggest that you read the wording of the federal constitution on this point.

5. The 17th amendment provides that the senators shall be elected in each state by the people thereof for the term of six years. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In case of death where the deceased has no known heirs and left no will, how long must a creditor wait in order to satisfy a claim against the estate? Has the Probate court decree of one year recently been changed to three months? An individual [a neighbor] at the time of the deceased's death paid $40 for doctor bills for which a receipt had been given. 2. What is the proper procedure to present this bill for collection and [3] is it a bona fide claim? 4. At the expiration of the public administrator's custody of this estate, is it possible to learn what has become of funds so held—if at the time of expiration heir is found? 5. Is it possible for an interested party to learn of same? G. H.

1. Creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims. An administrator cannot be compelled to distribute before the expiration of such year.

2. Prepare a claim on a printed form obtainable from the office of the clerk of the Probate court. Have the administrator mark it to be allowed if he is willing, otherwise enter his appearance or serve process on him. The claim should be filed. If the creditor has had no experience in such matters, it probably would be advisable to employ an attorney.

3. Depends on facts that are not before us.

4. Yes, in the sense that he would be required to file a final account.

5. It seems probable that the public administrator's office would be willing to give you such information.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The idea that a bitter medicine is more effective than a mild one probably arose from a belief in strong remedies. There is no relation whatever between the taste of a medicine and its value in healing the body. Some of the most effective medicines are very mild and some of the bitterest medicines are valueless.

TREATY MAKING.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—The report on American foreign policy prepared by ten members of the faculty of the University of Chicago under the auspices of the Harris Foundation dealt primarily with policies, only incidentally with the constitutional machinery for carrying out policies. For this reason the suggestion that "a modification of the constitution conferring the treaty making power upon the President and a majority of both houses would appear to be desirable" was not dealt with at length. Since you selected this point for editorial comment on Dec. 4 it may be well to state some of the considerations which the signers of the report had in mind.

The suggestion was first made by James Wilson and Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania in the constitutional convention of 1787 because "as treaties are to have the operation of law they ought to have the sanction of law also." At one time Madison got the convention to agree to require only a majority of the senate for the ratification of treaties of peace on the ground that it ought not to be harder to make peace than to make war. But this exception from the two-thirds rule was later reconsidered and modified because of the fear that territorial interests of certain sections of the country might be sacrificed. The decision not to include the house of representatives in treaty making was because of the fear that it would be less able to maintain secrecy than the much smaller senate.

Friction between the executive and the senate and between the house of representatives and the senate in the treaty making process developed in Washington's administration and has been more or less continuous ever since. Many commentators have discussed the treaty making power historically and legally, and those not themselves members of the senate have almost unanimously concluded that the present system has not worked well and have favored vesting the treaty power in the President and a majority of one or both houses of congress.

It has often been pointed out that most of the treaties rejected by the senate would have been rejected by a majority rule. This is true of the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty of 1900. Only seven out of the 800 odd negotiated treaties were clearly killed by the two-thirds rule.

The general conviction that the present treaty procedure has not worked well does not spring primarily from a consideration of the treaties killed by it, on the merits of which, of course, opinions will differ, but from appreciation of its influence in paralyzing all government action in times of emergency and of endangering the execution of concluded treaties. Department of state officials have testified that the two-thirds rule has often made any treaty policy impracticable, with the result that either nothing has been done or agreements have been made by the executive alone, a procedure which although necessary under present conditions is not without danger to a proper democratic control of foreign policy.

Most modern treaties differing from the political or commercial bargains of the 18th century require appropriations or continuing administrative action, and thus they often cannot be executed without congressional legislation. As early as 1796 the house of representatives objected to finding itself coerced into making appropriations or legislating to fulfill a treaty in the making of which it had had no voice. Although it has usually acted to save the national good faith, it has continued to insist that it is not obliged to do so.

Modern treaties commonly have the practical character of legislation, and all treaties to which the United States is a party have in this country the legal effect of legislation under article 6 of the constitution. Consequently there seems every reason for assimilating the process of making treaties to that of legislation with, of course, the difference that initiative in treaty making must always be with the President and no treaty could ever be approved over his veto.

ESSAY ON TAXATION.

Cicero, Ill., Dec. 21.—One of the principal problems confronting state legislatures at the present time is the discovery of new sources of revenue. With thousands of home owners unable to pay their real estate tax bills, the states have been forced to cast about for other forms of taxation; and heavy relief expenditures have given added impetus to the search. Some have tried taxes on particular commodities, others are attempting to make use of a personal property tax, while still others, Illinois among them, rely on the sales tax as a financial safety valve.

But whatever makeshift is applied, it does not hide but only accentuates the fact that the real estate tax is a relic of another age; that it no longer serves the purpose for which it was originally intended. Real estate is no longer the measure of wealth. If a man signifies his intention of becoming a permanent resident of a community by establishing his own home, it does not follow that he should be taxed year after year for so doing. If the economic slough of the past five years has done nothing better than to illustrate the futility of levying against those who are unable to pay, it can be accounted a time of good fortune. Reduced to its essentials, the real estate tax is a confiscatory tax. Call it what you will; adorn it with legal trappings, it is nothing short of confiscation and should be replaced with a tax that can be truthfully called equitable. There is only one form of taxation that falls in this category—a levy on income.

If you want water, go to a well; and if a government needs money to sustain its opefations, common sense should direct it to obtain such funds from those who are able to pay.

EUGENE PILARSKI.

FREEDOM OF WORSHIP.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Last Saturday's TRIBUNE published a statement made by Metropolitan Theophilus, head of the Russian Orthodox church in the United States, to the effect that "the people of Russia would return at once to the church for religious solace if permitted to do so."

It is news to me that the people of Russia are forbidden to avail themselves of the alleged solace of their church. A little book entitled "Religion in the U. S. S. R.," by E. Yaroslavsky, president of the league of militant atheists of the Soviet Union, gives in full the decree of the soviet people's commissars on the separation of church and state. Article 3 of that decree reads: "Every citizen may profess any religion he desires or profess no religion; all laws disfranchising any citizen by reason of his profession or nonprofession of faith are hereby repealed. No reference is to be made in any official document to the profession or nonprofession of religion by any citizen."

I am not a communist, but I consider that in the matter of religious tolerance Russia is far ahead of the United States—where a candidate for public office may still be defeated because of his profession or nonprofession of religion.

OAK ST. BEACH PLAN APPROVED BY GOLD COAST

Long Fought Sanitation Issue Cleared Up.

The proposal of the Chicago Park district to provide sanitation facilities for the Oak street beach through the construction of subway comfort stations yesterday received the approval of Lake Shore drive residents who for several years have opposed the construction of a bathhouse in the area.

"The plan, as outlined, is the one which has always been favored by Gold Coast residents and of course meets with their approval," said Robert M. Woodward, Republican representative from the 29th district, who heads a committee of lake shore residents which has sought a settlement of the Oak street controversy since 1930."

Club Leaders "Pleased."

"We believe that this construction program will provide a solution of both congestion and sanitation problems at Oak street," said Frank G. Logan, 1150 Lake Shore drive, another Gold Coast figure in the Oak street negotiations.

"We're naturally pleased," said Mrs. Moses L. Purvin, chairman of the recreation division of the Woman's City club, which for ten years has campaigned to obtain adequate comfort facilities for the beach."

The improvement of the Oak street beach has been a subject of controversy almost since lake shore property owners in 1884 donated to the commissioners of Lincoln park their interest in the riparian rights attached to their lots, provided that no buildings should be constructed on this lake property.

Repeated efforts were made to secure the construction of a bathhouse, despite the 1884 agreement, as the beach became more and more popular and thousands of people packed it daily during the summer period. The park commissioners, however, feared to risk their right to the property by authorizing such construction.

Subways Are Proposed.

In July, 1922, Dr. Eugene S. Talbot, a lake shore resident, proposed, through THE TRIBUNE, that pedestrian subways be constructed to the beach under Michigan avenue and the Lake Shore drive at Oak street, Division street, and North avenue. These subways would eliminate congestion at the beach and would provide a place for the construction of underground comfort stations, Dr. Talbot said.

Last fall Kendrich Harger, Chicago resident state highway engineer, announced that the state highway commission was ready to construct the three pedestrian tunnels at a cost of $100,000 as soon as the Chicago park district advanced an acceptable plan.

This plan is now completed and will be presented soon, according to Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district.

RANCHER SLAYS A BANK ROBBER AT LONG RANGE

Harrison, Neb., Dec. 25.—(AP)—This northwestern Nebraska town of approximately 500 persons was abuzz today with praise of Albert Moody, crack shot rancher who brought down with one bullet at long range the man who shortly before had robbed the Sioux National bank here of $685.

County Attorney Wendell Mumby said there would be no inquest into the killing of the robber during a fusillade of shots from the gun of a rancher-businessman posse which picked up the trail of the gunman as he was heading for Crawford yesterday. A high speed chase ensued, and at a sharp curve in the road the robber failed to negotiate the turn. His car plunged down an embankment and he fled on foot, firing as he ran. About a score of shots were fired by the posse and Moody brought the man down with a rifle shot from about 500 yards.

The robber carried an identification card listing the name of M. R. Jensen, 40, of Denver. Sheriff C. S. Williams said he "felt certain" the slain gunman is Jensen.

At Denver Mrs. Jensen, semi-invalid and mother of a 9 month old daughter, at first refused to believe the dead man was her husband. Later she tearfully admitted the description of the robber tallied closely with her husband.

WHEALAN REPORT STRESSES SOCIAL WORK IN COUNTY

Discusses Expenditure of $19,130,000.

An accounting of the administration of a score of county institutions and of the expenditure of a budget of $19,130,603 for corporate purposes alone was given yesterday in the annual report of Emmett Whealan, who finished his term as president of the Cook county board on Dec. 3.

The county budget for 1934 was $19,130,603, or $1,620,825 higher than the 1933 corporate fund budget, the increase being almost wholly accounted for by the expenses of the primaries and elections held during the present year, which must be borne by the county and for which it receives a 4 cent increase in its tax rate. Preliminary estimates for the 1925 corporate fund budget place it at $17,294,370, which is $215,408 below the 1933 total.

Some of Work Done.

The present year saw the completion of the new County hospital nurses home, financed by a $2,500,000 loan and grant from the federal public works administration.

Mr. Whealan's report emphasizes the volume of social welfare work carried on by various county agencies, principally in the field of permanent infirmities whose victims do not come within the scope of federal unemployment relief.

The Cook county hospital cared for approximately 63,000 patients during the fiscal year ending Dec. 1. The average number of patients exceeded 2,500 a day.

Aid to Unfortunates.

In another branch of welfare work, $474,140 was disbursed in the form of pensions to approximately 1,300 blind persons. At Camp Reinberg, operated by the county bureau of public welfare, 3,111 mothers and their underprivileged children were given ten day vacations during the summer. In the rural districts of the county public health nurses made 16,000 visits.

The Oak Forest infirmary gave care to 4,926 disabled persons during the first eleven months of the fiscal year, and the county tuberculosis sanitarium at Oak Forest had 1,004 patients during the same period. Of the infirmary patients 809 were discharged during the same period.

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two Chinese from Manchukuo, arrested at Turirog, 150 miles north of Vladivostock on soviet territory, confessed today, according to a Rosta [Russian] news agency report, that they were carrying out orders of Japanese officers to investigate the district east of the city.

Their reported confessions admitted, it was said, they had been ordered to make reports on roads, barracks, and troop movements.

Han Min-fa, commander of the 15th regiment of the 3d infantry brigade of Manchukuo, was the name given for one of the prisoners, both of whom are held on espionage charges.

96 Years Old Today

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

On the day after Christmas, 1838, in a little hamlet seven miles outside London, James R. Arnold was born. Today Mr. Arnold, who has been a resident of Chicago since 1852, will celebrate his 96th birthday in his home at 324 North Avers avenue.

It took five weeks on a sailing vessel and a long journey over the snow-covered area between New York and Chicago to reach here in the fall of 1852. He was one of the early volunteers during the Civil war, serving in the 72d Illinois or the old Board of Trade regiment, first as private and later as sergeant. A sign painter by profession, he developed his talents sufficiently to paint portraits as an avocation.

Today his blue eyes are alert, his silver hair still covers all of his head. He goes to bed early, eats regular meals and enjoys an occasional drink of beer. He has outlived all his three sons. During his 82 years in Chicago he has been a regular subscriber to THE TRIBUNE. A staunch Republican, he went to the polls last November to vote.

He will celebrate his anniversary today with a party at his apartment, where his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Byrnes, lives with him.

MAIL BAG DEVICE CAUSE FOR DEATH IN ENGINE CAB

Cleveland, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A projecting device holding a mail bag was blamed tonight for the death of Carl Ludwig, 50, of Cleveland, Big Four engineer fatally injured last night in the cab of the second locomotive of a Cleveland bound train.

Coroner A. J. Pearse returned a verdict of accidental death after an investigation which began when Ludwig was found unconscious with a fractured skull at the throttle of his engine.

Joseph M. Creed, fireman, discovered Ludwig's condition when the train pulled into Linndale and the engineer died a few hours later in a hospital.

The cause of death remained a mystery until a mail bag was reported missing. Railroad authorities found the bag beside the track near Berea, through which the train passes without stopping, shortly before it reaches Linndale.

The coroner and railroad authorities concluded Ludwig had been struck by the mail bag or the device holding it. The bag was to have been caught by a hook in the mail car of the train.

ETHIOPIA LAYS NEW CHARGES AGAINST ITALY

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Dec. 25.—(AP)—New charges against Italy were made today in an official statement of the Ethiopian government, including the assertion that Italians are constructing a motor road from Radir to Ado and Guerlogubi, in Ethiopian territory.

The statement also claimed that Italians have occupied the settlement of Afdub. The statement said Italian planes continued to fly over Guerlogubi, in Ethiopian territory.

The new Ethiopian charges followed a communique by Premier Mussolini yesterday to the league of nations aggressively denying Ethiopian charges that Italy was taking the offensive in the north African colonial border troubles and demanding reparations from Ethiopia.

I'M ALONE ROW COMES UP FOR AIRING FRIDAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The international dispute about the sinking by the coast guard of the rum runner I'm Alone comes up for airing this week.

One representative each from the United States and Canadian Supreme courts will start final hearings here next Friday in an effort to settle the Canadian government's claim of $386,803 growing out of the destruction of the liquor-laden vessel off the gulf coast more than five years ago.

Canada, holding that the I'm Alone was of Canadian registry, says the craft was sunk more than one hour's sailing distance from the Louisiana coast. Thus, Canada holds, the vessel was outside American jurisdiction.

The United States contends that the coast guard cutter Dexter sent the rum runner to the bottom at a point within an hour's sailing time from shore and that, while it flew the Canadian flag, it was owned by a New York bootlegger now serving a prison sentence.

MICHIGAN'S RELIEF OVERHEAD EXCEEDED BY 35% IN ILLINOIS

The expense of administering relief in Michigan amounted to only 8.26 per cent of the total relief expenditures while the corresponding outlay in Illinois was 11.13 per cent, according to a report for October released yesterday by the Michigan Emergency Welfare Relief commission. Illinois' administration costs are consequently 35 per cent greater per dollar expended than are Michigan's. Michigan's comparatively moderate pay rolls are revealed as the main reason for the difference.

The records indicate that administrative salaries were 8.42 per cent of total expenditures in this state while in Michigan they were but 6.24 per cent.

Other expenses, such as rent, travel, office supplies, and rental of office equipment, were also relatively higher here, amounting to 2.76 per cent of the total relief burden. In Michigan these items accounted for 2.02 per cent of the entire cost.

Some progress has been made here recently in reducing pay rolls, economies of $156,400 a month since Dec. 15 having been effected in this fashion.

ASSASSIN SAVES LIFE OF GREEK MINISTER OF WAR

ATHENS, Dec. 25.—The repentance of an assassin saved the life of War Minister George Kondylis, former dictator and "strong man" of the present cabinet, authorities revealed today.

Gen. Kondylis received with his Christmas mail a book on military strategy in the hollowed-out pages of which had been concealed a chemical bomb. Before he had an opportunity to open the package, an orderly handed him a letter from the sender, warning him of its contents.

Explosive experts opened the package and verified its lethal nature.

QUIZ PHYSICIAN IN MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF BRIDE

Port Jefferson, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Dr. John H. Becker of Ozone Park, Queens, was questioned today by state police in connection with the death of Mrs. Loretta Wilson, 19 year old New York City newlywed, whose nude body was found in a thicket, covered by leaves, late yesterday.

Dr. Becker was detained in technical custody after the woman's husband, William Wilson, told authorities he had examined her last Dec. 17.

The physician, 52 years old, readily admitted to Assistant District Attorney Joseph Arata and state troopers that he made the examination. He said Wilson and his wife came to the office together and that he told them she was suffering from a kidney ailment.

They left, Dr. Becker said, and did not return.

Coroner Grover Sillaman, performed an autopsy early today and reported Mrs. Wilson died as the result of an illegal operation.

Subsequently, police said, Wilson admitted to them that he and Mrs. Wilson had sought to have an illegal operation performed.

Wilson said his wife left home to see "a physician" last Wednesday. She did not return and two days later he notified police. The husband did not know whom his wife planned to see.

FAMILY SPLIT BY LAW MEETS; 1ST TIME IN 4 YEARS

FORT ERIE, Ont., Dec. 25.—(AP)—For a few hours today Mrs. Josephine Ortenzi and one of her twin sons, Dello, were reunited with the husband and father, Barnabas Ortenzi, and two other children, Mary and Rinaldo, at the Fort Erie ferry landing.

The meeting, in the dingy waiting room of the ferry company, marked the first time the husband and wife had met in four years. The Ortenzis entered the United States from Italy originally, but were separated when Mrs. Ortenzi and her twin sons were refused re-entry when she sought to return after a visit to relatives in Canada four years ago. Ortenzi then asked permission to enter Canada with his two other children but his plea was refused.

His only alternative is an appeal to Washington for permission for his wife and twin sons to return to the United States. Should this fail, it was expected the Canadian government would deport Mrs. Ortenzi and her two sons to Italy.

DR. WILLIAM E. THOMPSON.
[Kaybee Newsfoto.]

Bethel, O., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Approaching the completion of seventy-five consecutive years in the practice of medicine and with his 100th birthday only five months away, Dr. William Eberle Thompson of Bethel declares he has no intention of retiring. He is said to be the oldest practicing physician in the world.

Dr. Thompson was born, raised, educated, and has always practiced in this community, in the heart of the hill country of southern Ohio. He first hung out his shingle in January, 1860. He hasn't missed a week from his office since and today fills regular office hours and makes house calls daily. His stride is steady, his mind is clear, his voice is sharp, and his sight is good.

43 LEGISLATURES URGED TO MERGE RELIEF EFFORTS

Welfare Chief Asks Harmony with U. S.

The legislatures of 43 states which meet next month were urged yesterday to coördinate all welfare activities so as to work more in harmony with the federal government's social and economic program.

The plea was made by Frank Bane, director of the American Public Welfare association, which has headquarters at 850 E. 58th street. His organization has been advising state commissions in developing welfare programs, serving 15 such groups during the past year.

"Legislatures of 43 states meet in January confronted by unprecedented problems in relation to unemployment relief, which for five years has been continuous and increasing," Bane said.

Expects Congress to Act.

"Congress, which also convenes in January, probably will consider ways and means for stimulating and assisting private enterprise, an enlarged public works program, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, aid for mothers with dependent children, health insurance and other measures for social security.

"These measures, if enacted, will not lessen the responsibility of the states but will require from them additional efforts. There has been a definite trend to exact large participation by the states, as, for instance, in taking over more responsibility for providing for persons who cannot immediately be absorbed in private industry or furnished with jobs in an expanded public works program. The state legislatures should revise their welfare laws to meet modern social conditions."

State Departments Urged.

Mr. Bane suggested that all states coördinate their welfare activities in an efficiently organized state welfare department with power to plan, supervise and direct; that pauper laws "providing for relief on a mere subsistence level be repealed and modern public assistance laws enacted; and that legislation be passed providing "that all public welfare officials should be selected on a merit basis and every legislative safeguard should be thrown around the administration of the public welfare departments to prevent political manipulation."

"One may well wonder," Mr. Bane said in conclusion, "how much suffering has been occasioned and how much money has been wasted because in the welfare field in the past we failed to organize proper welfare services and to build sound welfare policies. The need for carefully planned welfare legislation is obvious and urgent."

Barnet Hodes Offers New Tax Cut Plan in Book

Barnet Hodes, member of the state tax commission, has written a book on taxation, entitled "It's Your Money," to be published in January by Reilly and Lee, Chicago publishers. The book is a nontechnical discussion of taxation embodying a program of tax reduction which the author asserts may be carried out without injury to essential public services.

In New York, there is one newspaper that is read, followed and personally consulted with an old-time intimacy that is rare indeed in modern journalism. The Herald Tribune has an editor-to-reader "pull"—a close, personal influence that has brought over 380,000 inquiries from readers so far this year.

More and more advertisers are recognizing the significance of this unusual reader influence. For the first eleven months of this year, only one newspaper shows a greater gain in total advertising and the Herald Tribune leads all New York newspapers in gains in National advertising.

Many Events Will Attract Society Tonight

Monte Carlo Ballet Will Open in Auditorium.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE school girls and boys will dance tonight at no less than four parties; the debutante set will dance at the Casino at a dinner dance Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High are giving for their granddaughter, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen; and the older members of society will go to the Auditorium for the première performance this winter of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe.

The Women's Trade Union league is sponsoring the ballet première as a benefit and since this is the first public benefit this organization, which has on its board many well known Chicago women, ever has had, and since the Monte Carlo Ballet was an outstanding "hit" last year, the beautiful old theater is certain to be filled tonight.

The league hitherto has depended upon private subscriptions, membership dues and contributions from the organized women's trade unions, but it is hoped that the benefit will provide it with a generous fund so that it may enlarge its activities.

The league maintains a clubhouse for working girls, giving them educational and recreational privileges. During the last few years, when many of these girls have been out of work and unable to pay the small dues of the club, the club has continued to allow them the use of the clubhouse just the same, and this has been a potent force in keeping alive courage among unemployed girls.

Sponsors Will Entertain Parties.

In the boxes tonight will be all of the women who have worked for months to make a success of the affair, including Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. James A. Field, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Orville J. Taylor and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter.

The Fairbanks are to be guests in another's box so they have given theirs to their children, Miss Janet and Ben and "Kelly." Near them will be another box full of young people, for Miss Joanna Fortune has given her box to her niece, Miss Barbara Fortune.

Among other box hostesses will be Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Francis S. North, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, Mrs. Charles R. Crane II., Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. William B. Hale, and Mrs. William G. Hibbard.

"Aurora's Wedding," "Boutique Fantasque," and "Le Beau Danube" are the ballets to be presented tonight.

Two Town Parties for Subdeb Set.

Of the parties for the sub-debutantes, two are in town and two are in the country. Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Donald R. McLennan and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner are entertaining at a dinner-dance in the Racquet club for Miss Caterina Bolognesi, daughter of Count and Countess Giulio Bolognesi, and the Harris School dance will be given at the Belmont hotel, preceded by several dinner parties.

About 80 of the sub-deb set will be dining and dancing at the Onwentsia tonight at a subscription party arranged by Mrs. Edward DeWitt Shumway, Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., Mrs. Kent Chandler, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Henry P. Isham, Mrs. Knight C. Cowles and Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III.

About twice that number will dance and breakfast at the Exmoor club at a party given jointly by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Farwell for their daughter, Mary Jane, and Mrs. Paul R. Haskins, for her daughter, Jane. The two young hostesses will dine beforehand at a dinner Miss Ruth Tilden, daughter of the Averill Tildens, will give. Mrs. Roger S. Vail of Highland Park is entertaining at dinner for her sons, Roger Sherman Vail Jr. and Henry Bloss Vail, and then taking the young people over to Exmoor.

Miss Hannaford Will Bow at Tea Dance.

In the opinion of the debutantes there are all too few tea dances during their holiday whirl. This is one of the reasons Miss Tayloe Hannaford's debut party this afternoon at the Indian Hill club will be one of the liveliest and most popular parties of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hannaford, whose home is in Winnetka, are presenting their daughter between 4 and 7 o'clock and for the occasion the club is to be transformed into a Christmas fairyland. Hundreds of Christmas trees have been imported for decoration and they have been hung with silver bells. An anteroom has been dressed up to represent a German village.

Since it is a tea dance, Miss Hannaford is having two dozen of the most popular young men on the north shore for ushers as well as a number of her sister debutantes and friends for assistants. The assistants are Miss Leslie Wilson, Miss Henrietta Boal, Miss Laura Bartlett, Miss Susan Ballard, Miss Harriet Daughaday, Miss Peggy Sargent, Miss Heath Horton, Miss Nancy Brown, Miss Jane de Peyster, Miss Patricia Calkins, Miss Nancy Knode, Miss Lucy Botts, Miss Barbara Bersbach, Miss Alice Bradley, and Miss Harriett Street.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

MRS. WALTER B. WOLF'S butler came down the little wooded walk near the little house that was once the children's playhouse on the Wolf's Winnetka place, and stopped to stare. A pheasant whirred out of the woods, and was heading for the house. It flew around the corner of the house, and, obviously blinded by the glare of the sun on the snow, headed straight toward the window of the bedroom that happened to be Mrs. Wolf's. Its momentum carried it through the glass; through Mrs. Wolf's point d'esprit curtains, leaving a great rent; then the poor little thing fell to the bed, dead of a broken neck.

Pheasant—Baumkuchen—Christmas—Celebrities.

The Wolfs' friends, who have traveled many miles in search of pheasants, were at first incredulous, but the window, pasted shut with paper until a new pane of glass can be put in, convinced them that the Wolfs were serious about the tale. Also there was the dead pheasant itself as final proof.

* *

A NOVELTY to which I was introduced this Christmas time was baumkuchen, a great tree of a cake that rises nearly two feet from the table and is about nine inches in diameter. It dominated the table at a late family supper party, Christmas eve, at which there were mulled claret and a gooseliver delicacy, and a herring salad with capers, and other German specialities on the buffet table. And at the other end of the room the loveliest Christmas tree imaginable.

Baumkuchen is built up of innumerable tiny layers laid on with great care and baked very slowly. The great "tree-cake" is hollow in the center, and when cut is sliced horizontally from the top. But perhaps you've known all about baumkuchen for years. . . .

* *

CHRISTMAS melange. Flurry of package wrapping; striped paper and gilt stars; spangled tissue and silver bells; mistletoe hanging from the chandeliers and holly wreaths at the windows; Sandy and Binge snowy as lambs with scarlet bows on their collars, and a bright red ball to play with; hot cinnamon rolls for breakfast; a snapping birch log fire; silver and green and blue Christmas trees; telegrams and poinsettia plants; a flurry of package unwrapping; turkey and blazing plum pudding at family dinner; a drive through the snow to the country for tea; evening dinner high above the drive with the town's most charming bride and happiest bridegroom.

THE city is filled with celebrated visitors this week. Alexander Woollcott was in town and went to see "Romance" Christmas eve, going backstage afterwards to see Eugenie Leontovich. Ethel Barrymore arrives today for a radio broadcast; Vernon Dukalski arriving presumably in connection with the ballet. And, by the way, when Leonid Massine and Mme. Massine went with a party of friends to the French Casino the other evening to see the new show they found several dancers in the production who had been with the Diaghileff ballet.

Southern Togs Make an Early Start in Shops

It May Be Cold, but Now Is Time to Buy.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Bright little corners full of beach clothes, cruise costumes and the stuff that goes south are going full tilt. In fact, the demands for such decorative clothes started a good three weeks ago. Even though you stay at home, it's a good time to pick and buy your next summer's swim suit, for the spectacular models have a disconcerting way of disappearing for all time without returning for a second or duplicate performance next May when you need them.

Beach costumes are good enough to eat, from the luxurious silken suits in white, pale blue, and a new flesh shade of pink with long swinging capes to match, to the colorful embroidered linens. There are also some new ideas to make you gasp—for instance, a flesh cotton lace worn over flesh colored jersey shorts and a scrap of a jersey "bra." A breath taking smooth job of cellophane, that is. The material is woven with threads or strands of glinting cellophane throughout—a bit scratchy but something to startle the natives with.

A certain white satin lastex suit that might give grandmother the jitters is lined throughout with soft jersey and it fits tighter than any other kind of a suit you can buy. While all-white still leads the parade of beach colors, you'll like the raspberry red tones, the cornflower blue tones and the rusty henna contrasts.

One smart color contrast is a swim suit of henna red worn under a white terry cloth beach robe, or with a natural colored linen beach skirt slit at both sides. Another cornflower blue is teamed with a rusty red cape to match the many tiny embroidered dots of red in the shorts of the swim suit. Bright blues and navy blue go places with white as usual, but the color so far to watch is this salmon pink shade, tremendously effective with sun tan.

Divided skirts for sports wear, for lounging on the beaches are really practical and good to look at at the same time, and shorts are amusingly slit at the side for about three inches. Shorts also fit better than formerly, especially the white numbers with side seams covered with blue braid. Wool shorts also fit snugly and come in grand colors for contrast with striped tops.

Found in the new southern wear collections—a lovely blue and red beach costume consisting of one-piece suit and full cape of jersey. The embroidered dots are in rust red and dark blue and a band of the dots faces the front edges of the cape. Available in a Chicago shop.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Drama Union of Chicago celebrates the beginning of its movement to establish a "people's theater" [low prices, sociological themes] with "Stevedore," a play successfully staged in New York last season by a similar organization. This debut was an event of Christmas eve at the Selwyn theater.

"Stevedore" deals in clamorous, melodramatic style with colored dock laborers in a southern city. Its intention, apparently, is to irritate and exacersate an American racial problem—to shout rhetorically about the grievances of the colored and to start an argument about "equality." It matches in a fairly obvious way with one of the patterns of communistic propaganda which agitators are seeking to weave into the American picture.

Its story begins with a false accusation of rape against an unknown colored man; then adds friction between organizing labor and stubborn capital to the theme; and gradually builds up a warped emotional frenzy which ends in a race riot between terrified colored defenders of their homes and a mob of white hoodlums.

In general, the play presents a study of the southern Negro as a harried, bullied, terrified creature, goaded at last into a fight for his life. White race prejudice is his cruel pursuer; but white union labor is, in the end, his rescuer after his leader, driven by would-be lynchers into a champion of battle, dies as a martyr on a barricade.

Opposing the inflammatory talk of this central character—a stevedore of spirit and physical prowess named Lonnie—there is a Negro spokesman for the safe and sane attitude in matters of racial friction. He, however, is depicted as merely a spineless servant of white capitalists.

The play runs through ten episodes, some of them slow and uninteresting, others exciting in a noisy, melodramatic way. Taking it as a whole I found "Stevedore" a dismal and depressing affair, although temperaments that respond with easy emotions to rabble-rousing speeches may disagree with me.

The cast contains twenty-eight characters who are given identities on the program. About twenty are Negroes, and are well acted by able Negro professionals. The performance, in the main, is skilful; and a wide variety of Negro types is exhibited. The most persuasive scene, from the point of view of stagecraft and stage direction, represents a humble eating place near the docks where the stevedores gather for lunch and gossip. Jack Carter, in the central rôle, is decidedly effective, and although given the duties of a demagogue never gets too loud, which is a fault of most of the others.

"Stevedore's" vehemence runs to curses as well as agitators, rhetoric. I counted ten major oaths and then resigned as scorekeeper.

Sorority Dance.

Two chapters of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority will hold their annual formal dinner-dance this evening at the Drake hotel. Miss Betty Seipp and Mrs. G. W. Walker will be the hostesses.

Gay Debut Tea

At one of the prettiest and gayest debut teas of the winter Miss Henrietta Boal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal, made her formal bow to society yesterday afternoon at her parents' home on Sheridan road in Winnetka. The debutante wore an exquisite gown of white tulle made in the old-fashioned, demure style that is so chic now, with a full skirt and a ruffle over her shoulders. The gown was trimmed with a ribbon sash of pale blue and a tiny bunch of forget-me-nots was pinned to the waist. Miss Boal carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Boal wore apricot chiffon and orchids.

The house was filled with Christmas greens, holly, and mistletoe. A table laden with eggnog, mulled claret, mince pies, and fruit cake stood in the dining room and another once in the hall nearby.

The Boals' annual Christmas party always is looked forward to by their friends, and yesterday's was the first—and the only one—at which there was a debutante to greet. Ayres Boal Jr., Stewart, and Thomas are the debutante's brothers.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

IF you had any Christmas luck at all you probably got some handsome lingerie loot. For laying your fine things away in the state they deserve don't overlook sachets. Using good ones is a charming habit.

There are some beautiful new ones in town, in tints that suggest their scent and add thereby to their attractiveness. These are sachet powder in cunning crystal flasks with golden caps that keep the air out and the fragrance in.

You can have your choice of six beguiling fragrances. The heliotrope, which is appropriately lavender in color, is a perfectly delightful one, but the red rose, in a delicate pink, happens to be our favorite. The fragrance of it is enchanting, to our way of thinking.

There's an excellent violet too that will impart a sweet fragrance to any thing it touches, and three bouquet fragrances. The ice green powder is a blend of sweetness and light if ever there was one. The third of the blended trio is a honey gold shade of powder in a haunting scent that defies definition.

Another thing you might consider if you want to make the most of the perfume we hope Santa brought you is an atomizer. Spraying it on is the only real way to use perfume. The effect of a fine scent sprayed discreetly is ten times better than when it's dabbed on.

Using an atomizer is a sensible economy measure too. You don't waste the perfume, for one thing and any good atomizer cuts down on the evaporation. There are some with trick stoppers that eliminate that problem entirely.

You can spend just about what you want for an atomizer in this enlightened age. There are some purely practical ones of good design priced most reasonably and if you want to go fancy you can spend a young fortune.

Action's Fast, Acting Good in 'The Gay Bride'

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

There is a gentleman by the name of Charles Francis Coe who writes most engrossing and unusual gangster stories. "The Gay Bride" has been adapted from Mr. Coe's yarn, "Repeal."

The gay one in question is a show girl, who, seeking security and money, weds a toughly engaging racketeer known as Shoots Magiz.

When McGiz gets HIS [poem], leaving behind him naught but liabilities and a poisonous memory, Mary flies to the arms of his treacherous cohort, Dingle. Her brief association with Shoots has taught her a few things about finance and wills and, from Dingle, she would wangle a trust fund.

But Dingle soon goes away from there in much the same manner as had Shoots. And now, there is a sinister, smiling Mickey, who wishes to marry the merry Widow McGiz. . . . And take her with him to Italy to visit his dear old mother. . . .

He has the trust fund all set—Dingle's ending being responsible for his affluence, and he comes and lays hits loot at Mary's feet, so to spik.

But now—True Love enters the scheme of things. Mary finds that she really has given her heart to "Office Boy," who had served the late McGiz as body guard, and with whom she has been at swords' points up to the time she makes her Great Discovery. . . .

She and "Office Boy" plan to shake the dust of racketeering from their shoes, and plan a simple life in a little country town where "Office Boy" has his eyes on a garage. BUT—

"O. B." hadn't known about the trust fund which Mary has neglected to return to Mickey—who becomes demoniacally importunate. . . .

Contingencies continge thick and fast for awhile and it looks as if the little girl from the chorus was going to get left all around. But she's a resourceful blonde and there's just no keeping her down. . . .

The action's fast and the acting excellent throughout. The director handled his material in fine shape and the dialog's crisp and well seasoned with humor.

See you tomorrow.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, is escaping out of Russia, where he is known as Stefan Ivanovitch. He rescues homeless Elizabeth Radin from freezing to death and takes her with him. He had seen her before and admired her. She is the widow of an executed engineer. Though English her husband was half Russian. She ran off to escape the advances of Commissar Petroff.

Stephen tells her his history, while they are traveling in a cart, driven by an old man named Yuri. As a boy Stephen lived on the large Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with a large peasant family, until his mother got him an English tutor. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian, Robert Carey, in England. After the revolution in Russia he became a "secret observer" for England. He went to the town where old Yuri, Mrs. Darensky's father, lived, and made him believe he was one of his many grandchildren. He became a veterinarian and adopted various peasant rôles to help hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and is anxious to quit his hazardous work.

They reach the home of Yuri and his wife, Akulina. Stephen tells them Elizabeth is his wife and her name is Varvara. She is very ill for several days and Stephen takes care of her. Akulina dislikes the frail woman, as she does Irina, a friend of Stephen's in the village.

INSTALMENT IX.

A DANGEROUS WOMAN.

Elizabeth felt suddenly giddy and lay down again. It troubled her to think that this Irina had stood there looking at her in her sleep. It was strange that she had not wakened.

Presently Akulina went out of the house. As soon as she had gone Stephen came round the stove. Elizabeth raised herself again upon her elbow, and when he saw that she was awake he fetched her a wooden bowl of milk with an egg broken in it. She wondered how he had wrung these delicacies from Akulina. It troubled her, but she drank and felt stronger.

"You're better," he said.

And Elizabeth said, "Yes."

He smiled very kindly.

"It was just shock, and cold, and not having enough to eat. You'll soon be all right. Now I want to talk to you before Akulina comes back. You needn't worry to talk. I only want you to listen and say yes, and no, and a few things like that. You're strong enough for that, aren't you?"

Elizabeth felt as if she was about 5 years old. She said "Yes" meekly, and when she had said it her lips kept the faint shadow of a smile. He looked so large, sitting there with his blouse open at the neck so that the strong column of the throat showed. The bright chestnut hair which had given him his nickname curled vigorously. He looked the embodiment of cheerful health.

"Who is Irina?" asked Elizabeth. The question had been burning on her lips.

"All right," he said. "Now this is the first thing I want to say. There hasn't got to be any more of this dying business. It's no use, because I'm not going to let you die. You've had a good try at it and it's got to stop."

"I didn't!"

"O, yes, you did."

"It would save a lot of trouble," murmured Elizabeth.

"No, it wouldn't. You want to die because you're feeling weak. That old Petroff woman starved you, didn't she?"

Elizabeth made no reply. It was all too bitter and too near. Bread of insult and water of servitude—bitter water and bitter bread.

"Now that's all over," said Stephen. "It's all over and you've not got to think about it again. As soon as you feel stronger you'll want to live all right. You've got plenty of grit, and I want you to show it. You see——" his voice changed and became warm and friendly—"you see, I want you to help me, and the very first thing I want you to do is to get well, because staying here isn't going to be very safe, and we can't get away till you're well enough. Am I tiring you?"

Elizabeth blinked away the tear.

He took her hand, held it for a minute, and then laid it gently down.

"That's right! You're ever so much better, you know. Now listen! You can't be dumb here. For one thing, it'll make people talk too much. You know what villages are—every one buzzing rot and saying, 'Fancy—Stefan Ivanovich has picked up a dumb wife.' And half the men asking me where you came from, and whether there are any more to be had." He laughed a little. "And then, apart from the gossip, it's no go, because you talked in your sleep and Akulina heard you."

"What did I say?" said Elizabeth, her eyes wide and startled. "Did I speak English?"

"Akulina wouldn't know what it was. Besides, she won't talk. But I don't think you'd better be dumb—it isn't necessary. The talk here is a good bit mixed up anyhow. We're over the Ukrainian border, you know."

"Akulina talks Russian to you——"

"Yes. She's a Ruthenian from White Russia. She was born and bred on the Darensky estate, and her daughter Katinka went back there when she married. Yuri is a Ukrainian. Are you any good at acting?"

Her lips moved into that faint smile.

"Yes, I think so."

"Very well then, here's your part. You come from east Russia. Your father and mother are dead and you were trying to find your brother who is in the Red army. Your name is Varvara. You don't need to talk about any of this, but you've got to know it so as to have a proper background in your own mind. Whilst you're lying here make pictures of your father and mother and the brother you're looking for. Your mother's name was Marya and your father was Mikhail. Your brother is Ivan—you haven't seen him for two years. There aren't any more of you. Your mother's house was like this, only there was no partition and the stove was on the other side. Get it all into your head and then talk as little as possible. You're very shy and a little weak in the head."

"I say, I didn't mean it like that! Of course it sounds funny. But you see what I mean, don't you? It's an easy part to play, really. You've just to say yes and no and try to look as if part of you was somewhere else."

The laughter went out of Elizabeth and left her shaken. She said, "I'll try," and Stephen nodded encouragingly.

"It isn't the village people who matter so much," he said. "It's Irina. You'll have to be most awfully careful."

"Who is Irina?" said Elizabeth.

The question had been burning on her lips. They trembled a little when she had spoken and she was angry with them for trembling. What did it matter to her who Irina was?

Stephen did not answer for a moment. Then he said, "We shall have to look out for her—she's clever."

"Who is she?"

"You might call her a sort of communist missionary. She goes round amongst the villages trying to convert the old people and hotting up the enthusiasm of the young. I was hoping she wouldn't be here just now—we've had rather more than our share of her lately. Not but what we're very good friends and all that——" He broke off rather suddenly.

Elizabeth raised herself on her elbow. She looked at him and he was looking away.

"What is she like? Is she young?"

He turned back, laughing.

"Wouldn't you like to tell her we're not married?"

"Good Lord, no! She's the very last person on earth. I say, what put that into your head? Did you think I was in love with her?"

He frowned and said, with unexpected gravity:

"I'm not. Put it out of your head." Then he smiled again, a wide, amused smile. "I said we were good friends—not friends. There's a difference, you know. She's intelligent and it's a godsend to have some one intelligent to talk to in a place like this, only I have to keep on taking care not to be too intelligent myself, and that's a bit wearing. We've really only got the color of your opinions in common. I didn't get called Red Stafen just on account of my hair. No—we're fellow enthusiasts and red hot communists. So, if you hear me getting things off my chest like 'universal socialist materialistic ideology,' try and look as edified as you can."

Often Wise to Ignore Child's Thumbsucking

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The family get all excited about their darling Sambo's thumbsucking—or at least we'll call him Sambo. His mother and father don't—it's the rest of the family, I mean. They talk about it and think it's dreadful. And Sambo doesn't do it much either. Mostly when he goes to sleep.

In Sambo's case I advised the mother as follows: "If I were in your place I should make the whole family stop fussing over this thumbsucking. It certainly will not help matters and may tend to fix the habit.

"Sambo would come under the subject of 'thumbsucking in the older child,' because he's well past his babyhood. Has he much occupation for his hands in the way of the right toys, and plenty to do? Sometimes when a child is surrounded with adults he often does not show much self-activity and inventiveness in the way of play because they entertain him so much.

"Also, there is just one other possible thing for you to question. If this thumbsucking obtains so much attention for Sambo it may be that unconsciously he continues it in order that the younger baby child shall not have entirely the center of the stage. Curious little habits develop when a second baby comes into the family, usurping some of the first child's adoration. Why not try making it your business to have rather special times with Sambo and perhaps for a while to be with him in leisurely fashion—at nap and bedtime when possible?"

We are on the verge of sending to the printer a fully written booklet on the subject of thumbsucking. If you want your name put on file for it, send us a stamped, self-addressed envelop.

Clark Crossett, looked like a fairy princess in a billowy gown of white chiffon embroidered with silver bow-knots. Quite as lovely and distinctive as the gown was the lei of baby white orchids she wore about her shoulders.

For her debut yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Vail Lapham Brown, in Winnetka, Miss Nancy Brown was gowned in corn color moire trimmed in matching velvet. A plaited ruffle covered her shoulders and the full skirt of the dress swept into a slight train. Her bouquet was an armload of talisman roses and valley lilies tied with a turquoise blue bow. Mrs. Brown wore a tunic of brown lace shot with gold over a brown velvet skirt. On her shoulder she fastened a bouquet of green-brown orchids.

Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Brown and their daughter was Dr. Brown's father, George H. Brown, 85 years old. The house was elaborately decorated with English holly and poinsettias. Hundreds of friends arrived between 4 and 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Arthur Orr to Receive Friends

Montgomery Orr leaves Friday to attend a house party in Cairo, Ill., over the week-end. His fiancée, Miss Louise McCormick of Baltimore, is to be a guest at the same party and will accompany him home to St. Charles on Monday. Mr. Orr's mother, Mrs. Arthur Orr, will receive on New Year's day so that her friends may meet her future daughter-in-law.

Tomorrow or Friday Russell Tyson is expecting that charming and cosmopolitan lady, Mrs. James Russell of Milton, Mass., to arrive for a visit of several days. Mrs. Russell, who is Mr. Tyson's cousin, is on her way to Arizona and hence to the orient, where she will take a house in Peiping for the winter. Mr. Tyson has issued invitations for a dinner for her a week from tonight at the Casino.

Mrs. John F. Oakley [Mary Kay Downs], who reports that living in a southern city is delightful and that people went in swimming last week, arrived from New Orleans last week to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Downs, at the Pearson hotel. Dr. Oakley is in town for two days only.

The Charles B. Shaffers and Miss Barbara Shaffer will be leaving shortly after the first of the new year to occupy the house they have taken at Miami Beach for the season.

Crippled Children to Have Party Today

There would be nothing more fun today than to see the expressions on the faces of some 30 children when they visit the children's "heaven" that Miss Francise Clow and Luther Greene have created on the lower floor of Mr. Greene's residence at 1120 Dearborn parkway.

Miss Clow and Mr. Greene are having for their guests boys and girls from the Spalding school and the Martha Washington home, both of which administer to small cripples. There will be confections and gifts and a real Santa Claus in the person of either Robin Thomas or Tyrone Power Jr.

Tomorrow Miss Clow and Mr. Greene are to have a second party for several dozen colored children and on Friday and Saturday other groups of needy children will come for the afternoon.

Sons of Harvard will gather for luncheon at 12:15 this noon in the house on the roof of the Hotel Sherman. The occasion is the annual luncheon of the Chicago Harvard club for undergraduates. G. Cook Kimball, newly elected president of the club, will make his debut as toastmaster. One of the undergraduates attending will be Arthur Oakes of Oak Park, who was made captain of the Freshman football squad last fall.

Will Attend Orient Society Reception.

Dr. Martin Sprengling of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago is going east today to speak tomorrow evening at a reception of the Washington chapter of the New Orient Society of America at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Dumbarton Oaks in Georgetown. Dr. Sprengling will discuss "The New Orient and the New Present." The reception at 10 o'clock in the evening is to meet Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, the newly elected president of the society, and Prof. James H. Breasted of Chicago, the honorary president.

Alumni of Lake Forest academy will gather next Friday noon at the Union League club for their annual fathers and sons' luncheon. Ernest Palmer, whose son Bradley Palmer is a student at the academy, will be the master of ceremonies and George W. Young, president of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, and Headmaster John Wayne Richards, the speakers.

Mr. Palmer will also introduce Edmund J. Rendtorff, professor of chemistry at the academy, who is celebrating his 35th year of service. Mr. Young's son, George W. Young Jr., is another academy student. In charge of the preparations for the luncheon are Cornelius M. Trowbridge, Malcolm Vail, Logan McMenemy, Donald Bateman and John Oliver.

Connecticut Alumnae to Hold Dinner Tonight.

The Chicago Alumnae association of Connecticut college will give its annual dinner for the homecoming undergraduates tonight at the College club. Tradition has made this dinner the most important Connecticut meeting of the year. Miss Ernestine Herman, Miss Elizabeth Flanders, and Miss Elizabeth D'Wolf Archer are in charge.

The Chicago Mount Holyoke club will sponsor Chaliapin in "Boris Godounoff" at the Auditorium on Monday, Jan. 28. Profits will go to the scholarship fund. Mrs. Charles F. Spaulding is president of the club.

GIRLS'S DRESS.

The yoke front of this pretty school dress cuts in one with the front panel. The yoke is prettily shaped both back and front, and the easily made sleeves are joined to drop shoulder armholes. Deep plaits are always good, and this dress has them, allowing plenty of freedom in walking and play.

Wool challis, wool crêpe, jersey, and velveteen are suitable materials. The pattern, No. 3061, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years.

Antoinette Advises Neck and Throat Massage for Thirties

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One good New Year resolution, whether you go in for resolutions or not, is to swear on a stack of face lotions that you will not go to bed a single night without giving your throat and jaw line a treatment. I suggest swearing on the stack of face lotions because I know you have them, and use them. But so many, many women forget that there's skin below the chin line that wrinkles, fades, and ages at the same rate that skin on the face proper does, without care.

I am not speaking to the younger women today, although it would be wise for them, certainly from the 25th birthday on, to get the neck and throat treatment habit early. However, the advice is directed more at the woman in her midthirties, who with one of those powerful magnifying mirrors will find the jaw line not quite so firm as it used to be and the skin on the throat beginning to look a little fagged.

There are products that I know have, as claimed, particularly beneficial ingredients where the throat, underchin, and jaw line parts are concerned, certain items that catch up the sagging muscles or the crinkling flesh.

You'll be asked to massage it into the skin daily. If you don't intend to do that, save your money, or give it to your favorite charity. No good will accrue from the purchase if you don't swear by all that's good and holy that you will perform on neck and throat every single day or night.

Ganna Walska Arrives in U. S. to Give Concerts

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Barely in time for Christmas, Ganna Walska, singer, arrived from Paris today on the Ile de France. The liner was delayed eighteen hours by heavy gales. Mme. Walska wore a navy blue dress with a loose cashmere coat and a white velvet Cossack hat. She was accompanied by two Parisian friends. She said she plans to give six concerts in 1935, all to be conducted by Toscanini.

Barbara answered, "Well, mama hates moths so and when I saw a flock of them in the cedar chest I quickly closed the lid so they wouldn't get out."

BY MARY MEADE.

With our native vineyards spouting champagne and with knowing cooks becoming more and more flavor minded these days, we're delighted to announce a new product just come to market—champagne sauce, American style. Instead of paying dollars for the choice, imported French champagne sauce—luscious on meats, fish, and poultry—we will soon be able to buy an American made sauce, quite as delicious as its high hat cousin, for less than one-third of the price. Thus far we have not located the delicacy in Chicago stores, but we predict that it will only be a matter of time before our poultry, steaks, omelets, and soups will be stepping out with this new and flattering addition to all sorts of gustatorial triumphs.

Now from Mrs. V. A. a question about coffee percolators. "Which is better," she asks us, "aluminum or enameled ones?" And my answer will have to be—both are excellent if they are of good quality, both have their difficulties if we try to buy them too cheaply. The cheaper grades of aluminum are thin and likely to dent and even burn through at high heats. Poor grades of enamel quickly chip and "craze." So my tip is this—buy a good percolator and suit yourself about the style, color, and material. Remember, too, while you're shopping for your pot that there are electric and nonelectric ones in all types—and that good coffee equipment may be bought in porcelain, nickel, chromium plated metal, glass, and china, as well as in the more familiar enamel and aluminum ware.

What to do with beef tenderloin (fillet of beef) is a bothersome question to P. F. When it is broiled, she reports, the tenderloin cut won't even brown, while the bacon virtually burns to a crisp. The solution, as a rule, is in larding. Actually this fillet is the solid, tender section usually sold with porterhouse steak. It lies under the loin and rump—that under the loin is the long fillet and that under the rump is the short fillet.

The reason that we pay such high prices for the cut is that when it is removed no porterhouse steaks can be made.

Since the tenderloin is lean it must either be larded or rolled in thin strips of beef fat, bacon, or salt pork. You may do one of two things with your beef fillet—either order it larded at the butcher's or do it yourself at home. If you choose the latter way, wipe the meat, remove the scraps of fat, veins, and any bits of tendon. Then skewer it in shape and lard the top side along the grain of the meat. At this point you may either roast or broil the fillet, then serve it with mushroom sauce or a simple brown sauce. Fillet mignon is simply sliced fillet of beef broiled and served with a rich meat sauce.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SYSTEMS CAN GUIDE YOU ONLY SO FAR—THEN THE CARDS TAKE CHARGE.

Today I have put away the blackboard and will try to produce something out of a hat to amuse you. The following hand was sent me by a friend who played it in the Cleveland Whist club. A slam can be made in each of the four suits, and it is just a question of keeping on bidding in order not to take the worst of it. However, my friend did overlook one little point of defensive timing which I am going to stress so as to add a little medicine to the candy.

	♠Q-J-10-8-5-4 ♥None ♦9-7-6-5-2 ♣10-6
♠None ♥Q-9-8-7-2 ♦A-4 ♣K-Q-J-8-5-3	N. W. E. S.	♠K-9-3 ♥A-K-J-4-3 ♦J ♣9-7-4-2
	♠A-7-6-2 ♥10-6-5 ♦K-Q-10-8-3 ♣A

South was dealer; neither side was vulnerable, a condition which surely contributed to the liveliness of the bidding. The hand came up in a large duplicate game, and actually a small slam was bid and made—mostly doubled—in each of the four suits at one or more tables. Undoubtedly, most of these slam bidders expected to be set a trick or two and were merely making sacrifice bids because they felt they had no defense against slam contracts the other way of the table. In one case the bidding went:

South, one diamond.

West, three clubs [I would prefer a "strategic double"].

North, five diamonds, realizing the freakish nature of all the hands and hoping to shut out East.

East, five hearts, being prepared to go to six clubs if doubled. He, too, senses the freak and refuses to be barricaded out of the bidding.

North, five spades. He cannot stand the double and now makes clear the two suited nature of his hand, being ready to revert to diamonds if doubled.

East, double.

West, six hearts. He does not like the double and hopes to make six hearts if they lead spades and not diamonds.

North, six spades, still not able to stand the double he knows South will make, and hoping to have a play for a slam if they lead hearts. South's previous pass of doubled spades was very enlightening to North.

East and South passed; but West, fearing that the ace of diamonds might be his only defensive trick, bid seven hearts and went down one doubled. This was a fair score, as in several cases North was allowed to play at six spades, which he made. I feel, however, that against this contract some of the East players should have reduced the only lead which will beat it—the jack of diamonds. Consideration of the timing of the defense should suggest that lead. It looks as if the king of spades might make; but a heart trick is doubtful. West might have the ace of clubs. By leading the diamond East gives himself the chance to see the dummy and, if they let him in with the king of trumps, to underlead the club in hopes of ruffing a diamond return. Actually, as you see, the ruff would be given him immediately before the declarer could get in to lead trumps. By trying to arrange this play by looking ahead several moves he would have secured it immediately and set the contract. However, it seems that nobody made this play; they all led hearts or clubs, expecting to make a trick in one of these suites, if not both, and then also a trump trick. The cards would have rewarded the player with vision, though by a simpler process than that which his vision had anticipated. It is often thus. Give the cards an excuse for paying you a compliment.

Bashfulness Is Betrayed by Handwriting

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

Bashful people often suffer agonies but never betray the cause of their unhappiness except when they write. If you suspect that some one is not enjoying himself, try to remember how he writes.

If the handwriting runs downhill you can be sure at a glance that he is not altogether happy. He may be acting noisy and boisterous, but his manner his been assumed in a mood of desperation if his handwriting shows both depression and bashfulness.

Bashful writing is compressed. The letters are close to each other with short connecting links. The letters themselves are so tight and narrow in width that you probably will notice it without much study. The letters "m" and "n" are the ones most noticeably compressed. This is especially true of capital letters.

Besides being pressed tightly together the capitals may be low. Such writers have an ego as shrunken as their capitals.

Boasting in such a case is a defense reaction. The extremely self-conscious and timid may rely on it in an unconscious attempt to make others think they are brave and wonderful.

The very fact that any one considers himself an all important topic of conversation should make you suspect a lack of self-assurance. If his capital letters are high and wide he believes the grand things he is saying about himself. If they are thin and low he doesn't and he needs encouragement in his battle against an inferiority complex.

Will my new car arrive Monday

The writer of today's specimen of handwriting certainly knew nothing about graphology because he wrote me a letter asking "fortune telling questions" such as the one here. His handwriting, though, shows much about him. He is timid and extremely reserved and agonizingly bashful. These people are hard to know and understand.

Scenic Variety Awaits Traveler to West Indies

Bits of Other Countries Live on Spanish Main.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Spanish pirates and hi-jackers may have preferred their galleons stuffed with chests of gold but today's travelers prefer cruise ships that provide everything from garden lounges to a Pompeian swimming pool. On the motor liner Kungsholm Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Adcock with 400 more sun seekers are sailing this week into the old Spanish Main where conquistadors made tropical melodrama.

They boarded the ship last Friday in New York which means that they're putting in at St. George's on the Island of Grenada, the spice island of the west, this morning. Before they return from the West Indies on Jan. 6 they will have enjoyed the pleasures of an English resort, a bit of India, a miniature Holland, and oriental bazars, to say nothing of mountain passes and tiny sprawling Spanish villages.

Port of Spain in Trinidad, which Mr. and Mrs. Adock are looking forward to with special anticipation, has been said to possess all of the "melodramatic strangeness of a Kipling story." True enough, for there against a backdrop of tropical vegetation there are Hindus from British India, native women wearing rings in their noses, a coolie settlement, and Trinidad firemen in grotesque brass helmets.

Caracas, capital of Venezuela, is just as Spanish in its narrow streets and donkey carts as Willemstad, capital city of the Island of Curaçao, is Dutch. Gabled houses in ice cream colors, streets swept immaculate and flowers in gay profusion in Willemstad make the visitor think he has been set down in The Hague or Amsterdam. Dutchmen, Spaniards, and Portuguese, however, make up a conglomerate population.

The oriental bazars are down near the waterfront in Colon in Panama and they are piled high with every variety of eastern treasure. If the Adcocks follow in the footsteps of Henry Morgan, they will visit old Panama, where they can see the tower of the cathedral and its spiral stairway to the belfry . . . lonely relics of an old world church destroyed in 1671 . . . before they go on to Kingston, Port-au-Prince in Haiti, Nassau, and Bermuda.

Many of these holiday experiences await Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler who sail tomorrow evening from New York on the Empress of Britain for a ten day vacation in the West Indies.

South . . . Southeast . . . Southwest . . . Everywhere south. Those who have not gotten away during the holidays are treating themselves to New Year's vacations in the far off stretches of sun kissed lands. Well aware that the proper antidote for a debut whirl is a good dose of fresh air, Miss Martha Borland is leaving the middle of January for an extended trip in Mexico and Central America.

Accompanying her will be her older sister, Miss Harriet Borland, already a seasoned traveler as proved by that book "Passports for Asia," of which she is a co-author with her sister, Beatrice, now Mrs. Barton Plimpton of South Walpole, Mass. They will visit many of the same places that Prentice Andrews is making plans to investigate as soon as he has had New Year's dinner with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Going with Frans Blom as companion guide, Mr. Andrews wants to explore the Mayan country of Mexico and then go on into Guatemala which for magic might compete with the tricks of any Houdini or Thurston. In a space not nearly so great as that of the state of Pennsylvania, Guatemala combines the dream qualities of Italy, Spain, ancient Rome, the far east, Switzerland, even Africa. At least this is what that Britisher, Adolph Huxley, thought about it when he visited the Central American country for the first time.

The capital of Guatemala, Guatemala city, sits 5,000 feet in the air on a plateau. It's a gay metropolis with Spanish ruins shadowing racing plants and temples planted next door to the most modern hotels. A half hour's ride takes the visitor into the jungles.

Next week Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin is making a business trip to Richmond, Va., harthstone of the fast disappearing southern aristocracy. Before she comes back to Chicago the middle of the month she will have several days in Baltimore with her friends, Col. and Mrs. Jenks Jenkins. On Jan. 12 the Jenkins' daughter is to be married in a fashionable church ceremony.

Doris Advises Romeo to Meet Girl's Family

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What a man, Johnson! Johnson has served notice on his Josie that if, within the next fourteen days she doesn't extend him an invitation to her home she can call him the man that was, or words to that effect. He's got fed up on Josie's evasion of the family introduction.

Josie, obviously, is one of those young women who feels the day lost whose low descending sun sees no date registered to go somewhere. Johnson has been catering to her gadabout whims since early in the year. Josie tells Johnson that her dad is terrible about having boys come around the house. Johnson knows the dad isn't terrible, at all. He knows a man who knows the dad quite well.

Proving you can't fool all the suitors all the time. You've got to let them in on the family secrets sometimes. Smart boy, Johnson, to want to figure out for himself just what's back of it all—whether Josephine in the home background would give a good or bad imitation of a desirable woman.

We know no better way for young men to learn about women. How girls treat their mothers and fathers, their sisters and kid brothers, throws a most illuminating light. None better. You can tell what sort of disposition the young woman has, how easy she will be to get along with. Any one can be sweet and lovely when she is out having a good time, but the test is surer against a home background.

If it's plain the family idolizes the girl, the young man can't do better than get a lien on her future, pronto. Families do not adore members thereof unless said member has proved herself a lovable one.

Charmers of Millions

GINGER ROGERS
and TILLIE THE TOILER

The Comic Weekly makes a habit of Breaking Sales Records • it's funny that way

They draw the crowds to the box office and to the newsstands, because millions of people know THEY ENTERTAIN

BRILLIANT, clever, engaging Ginger Rogers holds the attention of millions by her portrayal of perfectly natural human beings in entertaining situations. America loves her because she makes ordinary everyday human beings interesting.

Tillie The Toiler holds her audience of millions in The Comic Weekly for the same reasons. She makes the life of an office girl eventful, for Tillie's life is no humdrum affair. Humor, hopes, setbacks, affections, ambitions and romance keep Tillie's life colorful both in the office and outside. She is a cross section of American femininity, and as such touches the hearts of everybody.

Every Sunday some fifteen million men, women and children, in more than five million homes, vie with each other for "first" on The Comic Weekly, distributed through the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers. They must know what Tillie, Jiggs, Pop-Eye, Skippy, Barney Google, and all the other family favorites are doing.

This is the largest and most attentive audience in the world. It is America's largest market, where more things are bought for the sustenance, comfort and pleasure of men, women and children than are bought by any other market within the influence of advertising.

The Comic Weekly is unique in that it reaches the entire household—not just the mother who buys, but the father and particularly the children who have so important an influence on the purchase of the things they want.

In addition to the children, 68% of all men, and 72% of all women newspaper readers read the comics. And they see the advertisements too, for The Comic Weekly strictly limits the number of advertising pages per issue.

These are some of the reasons why The Comic Weekly has proved its productiveness for its advertisers more than any other medium. This statement is capable of abundant actual proof. We would welcome the opportunity to lay the proof before you. Please call COlumbus 5-2642 New York, or Superior 6820 Chicago

What products does The Comic Weekly sell?

Just about everything!

CEREALS—Last year a prominent cereal-maker's advertisement in The Comic Weekly broke all existing records for box-top returns. But today that's just history. An advertisement for the same company ran 6 weeks ago and has already pulled more returns than the previous advertisement pulled in six months! And the box-tops are still pouring in!

•

FLOOR-WAX—Addressed exclusively to adults, with the same copy used in other leading national magazines, this manufacturer's advertisement carried a 10¢ offer and a 20¢ offer. The Comic Weekly's inquiry cost was 40% lower than the average for the other media!

•

DRUGS—A well-known proprietary manufacturer introduced two additions to his line through The Comic Weekly. This offer of free samples was accepted by over 130,000 readers . . . a response that converted him into a consistent advertiser in The Comic Weekly.

•

COSMETICS—"Buy our product . . . send in the carton plus 10¢ in cash" read the offer of a beauty bath powder manufacturer. Did it pull?—Well, it outpulled every other ad he had ever run . . . in space or on the air!

•

AND THE COMIC WEEKLY HAS ALSO SOLD TYPEWRITERS, CIGARETTES, SHOES, BEVERAGES. LET US TELL YOU ABOUT THEM!

Announcement!

The Comic Weekly, "Puck", which is distributed through the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers will appear as a 32 page tabloid beginning February 3. Advertising space is available in full page units. The Comic Weekly is the only National Publication of its kind.

HAWKS WIN, 2-1, ON DETROIT ROOKIE'S GOAL

WAGER $259,096 AT SANTA ANITA TRACK OPENING

Movie, Society Folk Pack Stands.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 25.—Los Angeles horse racing reopened this Christmas day after a hiatus of 25 years. It was greeted by a crowd which swamped facilities of the Santa Anita track, a picturesque spot from whose stands are visible snow capped peaks of the Sierra Madres despite summery temperatures.

Local estimates placed the attendance between 40,000 and 60,000. To a hard boiled easterner it appeared the crowd numbered between 25,000 and 30,000, but the throng was large enough to make wagering a test of physical endurance in edging among the sardined masses trying to view the inaugural. In fact, density of the crowd prevented many from wagering. The handle was $259,096, of which $54,795 was bet on the Christmas stakes, feature event of the day.

High Glee Wins Stakes.

High Glee, bearing the familiar light blue and brown cap of the C. V. Whitney stable, carried those colors to the front before an array of Los Angeles society folk and practically all the screen notables of Hollywood. Chic Toney, pacemaker and outsider in the wagering, was second, with Riskulus third, Top Row fourth, and Time Supply, the favorite, fifth. Head Play, second to Broker's Tip in that memorable stretch duel of the 1933 Kentucky Derby and winner of the Preakness following, was next to last.

High Glee rewarded his backers with $14.60 for a $2 investment. Chic Toney was at $39 for place, and Riskulus $4.60 to show. The time for the mile was 1:37.

This Santa Anita track has a historic background. It is located on a part of Lucky Baldwin's original ranch property of 40,000 acres, now teeming with Los Angeles suburban population. Lucky Baldwin, if you remember, won four American Derbies at old Washington Park race track in Chicago. Those winners were Volante in 1885, Silver Cloud in 1886, Emperor of Norfolk in 1888, and Rey El Santa Anita, long shot winner of 1894. All these equine heroes of the past are buried within a half mile of the present oval. Over their graves is the black maltese cross, Baldwin's racing colors.

Visits Track in 1909.

Strangely enough, this correspondent was present at the first Santa Anita track in the spring of 1909, last previous season of racing here until today. Fences of the old track still stand. That was shortly after the death of Lucky Baldwin and his last Derby winner, Rey El Santa Anita.

Modern Chicago reminders, however, are the presence of five Arlington Park officials in the local personnel: Chris J. Fitzgerald, presiding steward, holds a similar position here. Roy Carruthers, Arlington's general manager, is associate steward; Roy Dickerson, is starter; C. J. Fitzgerald Jr. is associate judge and Mort Shaw, is in charge of mutuels.

Santa Anita, representing an investment of approximately $1,400,000, is a stock company of Los Angeles and San Francisco capital, with Hal Roach of studio fame as president. A club, similar to the Turf and Field at Belmont and Post and Paddock at Arlington, is the gathering place of Los Angeles élite. Memberships cost $5,000.

This mile oval is recently finished, therefore new in its appointments. It lacks the spaciousness of Arlington and Belmont parks, the seasoned appearance of Saratoga and the landscaping of Hialeah Park in Florida. Its sponsors probably built wisely in making it compact until public acceptance of racing is assured, but it was all too small today, when expectations of the size of crowd and mutuel handle were exceeded. On the handle the take here is 12 per cent, breaking to the dime, of which 4 per cent goes to the state as tax revenue.

Riskulus Off Poorly.

In the stake event, twelve of the fifteen carded starters went to the post and the size of the field caused a slight delay. Finally, Starter Dickerson released the barrier to a good alignment except for Riskulus, which was not in stride and two or three lengths out of it.

Chic Toney at once set out to make the pace, with High Glee, Whitney filly, in close attendance. Don Meade, astride Brokers Tip when that Bradley colt won the nose decision over Head Play at Louisville, went to work on Riskulus and soon had the latter in third position. A. A. Baroni's Top Row also was in the contention, with Time Supply not unfavorably placed. Head Play was not showing the speed of his 1933 form.

This order was maintained down the back stretch without material change of position until the far turn, where Meade, on Riskulus, made his challenge. It seemed the Norman Church colt might come on to victory. Chic Toney, however, was not through while Silvio Coucci, a jocky well known to Chicagoans, began urging High Glee to the fore.

High Glee, under an impost of 108 pounds, responded valiantly. Chic Toney was leg weary while Riskulus already had made his run and was through as far as first place was concerned. Time Supply, which carried top weight of 126 pounds, was unable to make up more ground. So High Glee came past on the outside of Chic Toney in the final furlong to win by two lengths with Riskulus a length and a half farther back in third place.

SAM SLAUGHTER IS STOPPED BY LOU BROUILLARD

CUYLER'S .338 IS 3D IN NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTING

Only Paul Waner, Terry Top Cub Veteran.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[AVERAGES ON PAGE 15.]

Kiki Cuyler, that young-old veteran of the Cubs, really was one of the big three hitters of the National league in 1934. Rumors to this effect are confirmed as truths with the release this morning of the league's official batting averages. Ki in his seventh year as a Cub turned in a mark of .338, his best in four years. He trailed only the league champion, Paul Waner of the Pirates, who had .362, and Bill Terry of the Giants, who was runner-up with .354.

Cuyler led his own team by a wide margin. George Stainback, freshman outfielder, was runnerup to Ki on the Cubs with .306. The vet also topped the team average by 59 points. With Ethan Allen, Cuyler led the league in two base hits with a total of 42.

Cuyler was the only Cub who drew any mention in the comment on the official release, except Chuck Klein, whose name was used in the recitation of records held by Chuck in 1933, such as home run leadership, etc. Ripper Collins of the Cardinals and Mel Ott of the Giants each totaled 35 home runs to share the crown worn by Chuck Klein last year.

He's Not So Bad.

When there was much talk of trading Cuyler emphasis was placed on the fact that he batted in only 67 runs. Waner, the batting king, knocked in only 90, and Terry only 80.

We do not wish to be taking issue with one of our favorite experts, who can't forget about those 67 runs, but we feel the urge to mention here that the averages of the rest of the Cub troupe indicate the principal reason Cuyler batted in even fewer runs than P. Waner or Terry. The only way a batter can bat in a run with nobody on base is to knock a homer, and Ki doesn't profess to be a home run slugger.

Chuck Barely Tops .300.

The official averages reveal only two other 1934 Cubs besides Cuyler and Stainback in the .300 group. Babe Herman, now a Pirate, was third on the Cub list, with .304, one point ahead of Billy Herman. Klein, by putting on a spirited drive in the last two weeks of the season, managed to finish with a blazing .301. Assistant Manager Gabby Hartnett, one of the workers on the club, nevertheless missed the golden mark by one point. Gabby, however, led the team in runs batted in, tying King Waner with 90. Manager-Vice President Charles John Grimm wasn't far away with .296. Captain-Librarian Woody English was down a bit with .278.

P. Waner, the personable little Oklahoma lefty, led the league most of the year. Those who know National league players probably are not a bit angry that Paul was able to beat out Manager Terry of the Giants by a margin of eight points. The honor rates as something of a comeback for Paul was king when the Pirates won their last pennant, in 1927. That year he batted .380 and was voted the league's most valuable player. At that time he was awarded $1,000 for being adjudged the league's most valuable performer.

Waner Gets Most Hits.

Waner made more hits than any other National leaguer, his total being 217, four more than Terry, who was the only other player to rap out more than 200 hits. Paul scored the most runs, 122.

Terry led the league in singles with 169, and Joe Medwick of world series fruit and vegetable fame, was the main triple knocker with 18. Hughie Critz made 22 sacrifices and Pepper Martin stole 23 bases to become the only repeating leader from 1933.

Honolulu Town Eleven Whips California, 26-13

HONOLULU, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Scoring two last half touchdowns, the Honolulu town team defeated the University of California's Bears, 26 to 13, in a Christmas football game here today.

HE'S NEVER TOO BUSY FOR CLOWNING

Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, suspends training long enough to help families of the Chicago Waiters' union enjoy their annual Christmas party. Max was working out yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his bout with King Levinsky when he heard that there was a waiters' party in progress in the same building. So he stepped in on the festivities to do a little clowning, which he seems to enjoy even more than fighting. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Christmas Day Just Work for Baer, Levinsky

Christmas was anything but merry yesterday for Max Baer, heavyweight champion, and King Levinsky. They were forced to forego any Yuletide joy and festivities by undergoing rigorous drills at Trafton's gymnasium for their four round bout at Chicago Stadium Friday. Their trainers forbade the usual Christmas dinner of turkey, cranberry sauce and yams and just before dusk both fighters were served with steak, spinach, prunes, toast and tea, flavored with lemon.

King Gets Real Workout.

While Baer had an easy time with his partners, the Chicago Kingfish was compelled to step at top speed against two mates for three rounds. After he traded wallops with Tom Jones for six minutes he stepped a round with Sunny Jim Williams, San Antonio, Tex., light heavyweight. Williams, one of the best battlers in the country two years ago, had enough stuff left yesterday to make the going tough for the King for one round. When Trainer Whitey Ekwert called time Levinsky was a tired warrior. He went to bed at 9 p. m., an hour before schedule.

Two Supporting Matches Made.

Two more supporting matches have been arranged. One at six rounds will bring together Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., middleweight, and Joe Bazzone of Pittsburgh, Pa. The other matches Bill Treest, St. Charles, Ill., light heavyweight, and Lou Thomas. Those announced previously pair Buddy Baer with Gene Stanton for four rounds, Frank Battaglia with Kid Leonard for ten, and Young Joe Gans with Eddie Stiegal for six rounds.

Baer, Levinsky, and their managers will appear before the Illinois boxing commission this afternoon to receive instructions. The meeting was ordered by Chairman Joe Triner in an effort to clarify rules and regulations for the match, the first of its kind offered in this state since the legalization of boxing here in 1926. Although the commission has designated the meeting as a contest and not an exhibition no official decision will be given to safeguard Baer's crown. When Levinsky met Jack Dempsey for four rounds at the Stadium in 1932 the bout was labeled an exhibition and not a contest. Levinsky was given the newspaper decision.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POST-SEASON GAMES.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 25.—Rolling along over paved roads to Los Angeles The Wake has plenty of time for thought because the ladies insist on doing most of the driving. This is their way of overcoming our known conservative notion of proper speed when motoring. Only when we insist on taking the wheel does the old bus teeter along at 35 per hour.

So in one of these reveries we considered the growing tendency toward post-season football contests. Of course, there is the Rose Bowl affair—this year between Stanford and Alabama—best known of the winter combats. It became an annual in 1916, although Stanford and Michigan played as far back as 1901 in what really was a forerunner of the present classic.

In 1925 San Francisco decided to rival, if possible, the Rose Bowl contest with an East-West combat—two elevens picked from senior players of the two sections. It is sponsored by the Shrine as a benefit for the Crippled Children's Home of San Francisco. Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate are the eastern coaches. In the nine contests so far decided, west has won 6 and east 3.

In 1929 Dallas, Tex., stepped forward with the Dixie Classic, also played on New Year's day for the benefit of the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. It is the purpose of the sponsors to match some leading southwestern eleven against an outstanding intersectional foe, although last year Arkansas and Centenary played a 7-7 tie.

Atlanta, Ga., in 1929 started a North and South all-star game. These designations were largely relative for only a few of the North players were from north of the Mason-Dixon line. Last year this contest was played at Knoxville, Tenn.

Now comes an addition to the list with Tulane meeting Temple at New Orleans in what is expected to develop into an annual Sugar Bowl feature. Miami, too, is considering an Orange Blossom game between leading elevens if possible to secure them. A prominent New York newspaper man with a home at Miami Beach is behind the idea. It seems late to procure the proper attraction now, but one may look forward to other years for action.

Miami and New Orleans are somewhat frank in admitting the lure of these games for tourists, the former in particular where an educational campaign has been in progress for several years to induce visitors to go to Florida earlier and stay later.

This movement might go to extremes except that the Big Ten, Big Three and numerous other colleges do not

Officials—Odie Cleghorn and A. G. Smith

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings presented the Chicago Blackhawks with a Christmas present in the form of a goal, scored by a Wing, enabling the Hawks to triumph, 2 to 1, in a National Hocky league match tonight before 10,000.

The goal came in the first period. Tommy Cook, racing down the side, lost the puck to Wally Kilrea, up from the International league with the Wings for the first time. Kilrea, trying to clear, accidentally shot the rubber into the Wing net.

Chabot Is Star.

Lorne Chabot, Chicago goalie, was the outstanding player in the game, particularly in the second period when he turned back 11 hard shots as Detroit tried desperately to tie the score with repeated four and five man drives. In the third period these tactics proved as costly as Kilrea's unfortunate shot when the Wings were caught flatfooted as Howie Morenz broke away to start a scoring play with Johnny Gottselig.

Detroit averted a shut out in the final minute of play when Lewis scored on a pass from Aurie. It was too late, however, for another Wing drive against the tight Chicago defense.

The victory enabled the Blackhawks to increase their lead over Boston in the American division to three points and broke their losing streak which reached two straight on consecutive days over the week end.

The Hawks started Cook, Trudel and Kendall against Weiland, Aurie, and Lewis, but nothing was accomplished until Morenz came on and nearly scored.

Hawks Take Lead.

At 11:33 Detroit scored a goal for the Blackhawks. Cook raced down and lost the puck to Kilrea. The young Wing center, trying to clear, shot the puck into the Wing net past the astonished Smith. Cook got credit for the goal.

A few minutes later Goodfellow missed the tying score, when in a mad scramble, his shot went wide, Sorrell then had an easy chance in front of Chabot only to see the puck roll off his stick.

Sorrell was free in front of Chabot after Wiseman's pass at the start of the second period, but Kendall tied him up. Buzzing around the Hawk net in a sudden four man drive, Anderson, Boyd and Goodfellow harassed Chabot. Goodfellow's shot hit Chabot's skate and stopped dead almost on the line to bring the 10,000 fans to their feet. The Hawks iced the puck, but the Wings returned, this time with five men on attack. All their efforts were unavailing, however.

Sorrell Misses Chance.

The Hawks settled down to back checking, spoiling Wing plays at center ice. Then Goodfellow dropped Chabot and with the Hawk goalie flat on the ice, Sorrell came around from behind. With only Chabot's body to clear, he failed to lift the puck, losing a chance to score as the period ended.

Play slowed down considerably early in the third period, with the Hawks willing to let the Wings remain on the offensive. When Romnes was sent off for tripping, the Wings sent five men down. They were stopped at the blue line time after time, however.

In the midst of one five-man drive Morenz broke away with the puck and passed to Gottselig, who flipped the puck back to him. Morenz drew Smith out of the net and scored in 13:52.

Leo Freisinger, 19 year old star Chicago skater, was injured while posing for a photograph yesterday at the Chicago Stadium. Freisinger, who suffered a fractured right ankle, probably will be unable to compete in the Olympic team trials scheduled Jan. 12 and 13 and 19 and 20 at Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. M. S. Corbett, Stadium physician, said the skater would be unable to participate in events for at least six weeks. Freisinger captured the intermediate championships in the North American and national races last year.

NEW DEAL WINS TROPICAL PARK FEATURE BY NOSE

Comes from Behind to Beat Jesting.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—New Deal, the 3 year old gelding which has turned in some excellent performances for James W. Parrish this season, ran a fine race at Tropical Park today to account for the mile handicap feature which topped the holiday program. New Deal triumphed by a nose over C. J. Bild's Jesting, with William Sachsenmaier's West Main a head farther back.

A colorful, gay crowd was present to witness the day's racing, and although it did not equal the throng of last Saturday it was expected that the mutuel handle would be the largest of the session. Only one favorite won.

Wins in Hard Drive.

The Parrish racer, which went to post a second choice, came from behind to overtake the pace setting Jesting in the final furlong and score in a hard drive.

At the break Jesting's stablemate, Band Wagon, stepped to the front and led the field at the quarter mile. Then, his duty done, Band Wagon was ready to relinquish the lead to Jesting, which Jockey L. Fallon sent up strongly.

At the time when Jesting went to the front, New Deal was still far back in the field of ten which started. When he was fully ready to spur his mount on, Eddie Arcaro sent the Parrish gelding to the front and managed to maintain his lead in a nip and tuck stretch battle with Jesting.

West Main a 26 to 1 Shot.

West Main, near the front all the way, also got into the battle in the final furlong, but was not quite able to catch the leaders. He was a 26 to 1 shot.

The Bild entry went to the post the public choice, but the Wheatley stable's Slapdash, top weight of the field under 118 pounds, was also the recipient of much support. New Deal, carrying 116 pounds, paid $8.00 straight after running the mile in the fast time of 1:37 4-5, only three-fifths of a second off the track mark.

BACH APPOINTED HEAD COACH OF PITTSBURGH PROS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Coach Joe Bach, whose Duquesne university football squad this year was one of the nation's highest scorers with 322 points, today signed a three year contract to coach the Pittsburgh Pirates professional gridiron team.

Bach was one of the seven mules in the Notre Dame line that had the famed four horsemen in the back field.

For six years he coached at Duquesne, assisting Elmer Layden until Elmer returned to take charge of football at Notre Dame. This year Bach was head coach. His team won 8 of 10 games.

approve extending the gridiron season so late. Either positive rule or informal agreement inhibits. Thus Minnesota, national champion, cannot compete at home or abroad however much the Gophers would have liked to display their prowess on the Pacific coast. It also prevents the Gophers from meeting Winnipeg in an Igloo Bowl game.

Football Shoes.

Dear Harvey: I read where the New York Giants changed shoes between halves in their championship game, beating the Chicago Bears Dec. 8.

I remember way back when the Chicago Athletic association and Boston Athletic association played their Thanksgiving day games at the old ball park, Wentworth avenue and 35th street, in the early '90s.

On the day before one of these games the field was a sea of mud and water. That night about 10 o'clock the thermometer dropped close to zero. Some one got out the C. H. A. football shoes, filed the lether on the cleats down to the brads, then sharpened the brads. The Cherry Circle won on the ice, 6 to 0, because they surely needed something to hold that day on the slippery surface and these shoes did.

Jack.

And we shall have snow,
And what will all the little
Girlie Wirlies do then—poor things?

They'll put on their thinnest clothes
And don their sheerest hose
And how their little Kneesie Weesies
Will knock then—cute things.

MONTREAL, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs hammered a 6 to 2 defeat down into the Montreal Canadiens' Christmas stocking tonight and gave a holiday crowd at the forum a demonstration of why they are the leading team in the National Hocky league.

Leading most of the way, the Leafs bewildered the flying Frenchmen with a burst of speed and power in the last ten minutes that turned a close game into a rout. The Leafs held a 3 to 2 margin as the closing stages of the game approached. Then as the Canadiens opened up in a final effort to tie the score they smashed three goals home.

Alabama Goes Through Hard Secret Drill

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Coach Frank Thomas went into executive session with his University of Alabama football players in the Rose bowl today. "No admittance" was the sign on the one unlocked gate and the curious found the sign meant just what it said.

Thomas explained that weather "back home" had not been all it should have been for the purposes of getting the team in shape for a hard New Year's game here with Stanford and he had to put the players through a hard practice session to restore the condition they have lost since the regular season closed a month ago.

Fans on hand for a pre-view yesterday commented on the accurate kicking and passing of the southerners.

Lines Evenly Matched.

The Stanford and Alabama lines should scale just about even when the first tussle occurs next Tuesday. This will be a new experience for the Palo Alto boys for in most of their games this year they had an edge in the forward wall.

Alabama worked out today with Hutson and Bryant at ends; Lee and Baswell, tackles; Morrow and Marr guards; Francis, center; Smith, quarter; Howell and Angelisch, halfbacks; Demyanovich, fullback. Jim Whatley, tackle, who was threatened with appendicitis on the trip to the coast, continued to take it easy but was expected to be ready for hard work in a few days.

The squad's Christmas dinner was served after the practice.

STANFORD SQUAD INTACT

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—His squad back in shape after a series of ailments, Coach C. E. Thornhill today announced the end of heavy scrimmage for his Stanford football players who are preparing for the Pasadena Rose Bowl game.

Only Bobby Grayson, the star full back and Stanford's best signal caller, remained on the slightly doubtful list today as the squad drew a day of rest in celebration of Christmas—and Grayson confidently expects to be ready to play against Alabama one week hence.

Squad Leaves Tonight.

Thornhill will collect the squad—that is, those who haven't left for the south already—for a final workout here tomorrow afternoon. The team leaves at 9 p. m. for Pasadena, and will have two workouts at Brookside park there Thursday.

The ankle injury to Larry Rouble, regular right guard, responded to treatment so fast that he was released from the hospital here this morning after having been a patient overnight.

SUPPORTING MAT CARD ARRANGED FOR COLISEUM

Four heavyweight wrestling matches will support the main event featuring Abie Coleman and Everet Marshall at the Coliseum Monday night, Maurice Feldman, promoter of the show, announced last night.

The semi-windup will send Mehmet Yousof into a 30 minute bout with Dick Raines. The special event will present Sol Slagel, 245 pound former Kansas university football star, and Olaf Oleson, Milwaukee scissors expert. Another 30 minute affair will be between Casey Birger of Iowa and Tommy Marvin, Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma.

Both Coleman and Marshall will be in Chicago tomorrow to complete training. The match is attracting interest because of the promise Jim Londos has made to meet Coleman later in the month if the Hebrew flying tackle star is able to beat Marshall.

GEORGE WILLIAMS SQUADS LEAVE ON TOUR OF EAST

The basketball and gymnastic teams of George Williams college, under the direction of Coach H. D. Edgren, Coach Clevett, and Manager Horace Lyons, will leave Chicago tomorrow for a tour through seven eastern states and Canada.

Twenty-four men will compose the squad of athletes and instructors which will present exhibitions and compete for the promotion of interest in the Y. M. C. A. recreational leadership program. The tour will end Jan. 6.

Purdue Five Drills Today for Road Trip

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—While the bulk of the student body is at home recovering from the effects of Christmas dinner, the Purdue basketball team, faced with an ambitious holiday card that includes games away from home with De Paul, Marquette, Wisconsin, and Illinois, all within a week, will return tomorrow to resume drills.

The schedule of road games, which will be launched against De Paul in the 132d infantry armory in Chicago on New Year's night, will determine just how much chance the reconstructed Boilermaker quintet is likely to have of putting up a strong defense of its Big Ten title.

Following the clash with De Paul the Boilermakers will jump to Milwaukee the next night, Jan. 2 to meet Marquette in the Milwaukee Auditorium.

The Big Ten title defense will be launched Saturday night, Jan 5, at Madison against Wisconsin. The road trip will end Monday, Jan. 7, when the Boilermakers invade Champaign to seek revenge for the 27 to 26 upset they suffered at the hands of the Illini in the final game of the season last year.

Coach Ward Lambert will present a combination built around his brilliant co-captains, Norman Cottom, forward, who paced the Big Ten in scoring last season, and Ed Shaver, brilliant back guard.

WM. H. WINSLOW DIES; MAKER OF IRON ORNAMENTS

Pioneer in Field; Known for Skyscraper Work.

William H. Winslow, a pioneer Chicago manufacturer, whose ornamental iron and brass fittings were standard equipment in most of the early skyscrapers built throughout the country, died Monday in his farm residence just outside South Haven, Mich., it was learned here yesterday. Mr. Winslow was 78 years old.

With his brother, Francis A. Winslow, Mr. Winslow formed the firm of Winslow Brothers company here in 1887, and began to sell molded and beaten iron and brass throughout the United States. The two men, according to engineers, played an important part in early attempts to use metal in the structural as well as the ornamental phases of building work during the '90s and the first decade of this century.

Burial to Be in Chicago.

Mr. Winslow, who had been ill for several months, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith H. Winslow; an unmarried sister, Sophie, who lived with the couple; a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Briggs of St. Paul, and a son, Paul, who was a world war ace with the royal air forces and later in the American air corps. Mr. Winslow's body was brought to Chicago last night and funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock today at Graceland cemetery chapel.

Born in Brooklyn, Mr. Winslow obtained his first job with the Hecla Iron works of New York City as a clerk. In 1883 he became a partner of this concern. In 1885 Mr. Winslow moved to Chicago and formed the manufacturing concern of Harris & Winslow. Within two years the company was dissolved and the two brothers had formed the partnership which they were to retain until 1922, when the company was dissolved.

Two Sons in War Air Force.

Both of Mr. Winslow's sons were war flyers. Alan, the elder, who died two years ago, joined the French air forces and was credited with being the first American airman to shoot down an enemy airplane. Early in 1918 Alan was shot down behind the German lines and taken prisoner. Paul Winslow, the younger son, joined the British air corps and shot down five German flyers before he was transferred to the air corps staf of the American army.

Mr. Winslow was made president of the Architectural Iron league of Chicago in 1900 and in 1905 he was chosen president of the National Architectural Iron league. He was an amateur musician of ability and was a member of the Union league and Cliff Dwellers' clubs in Chicago. He retired from active business when the firm was dissolved in 1922 and moved to the Michigan farm.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Outstanding holdouts against radio include Paderewski, Rachmaninoff, and Fritz Kreisler. Now there is a report that Paderewski is likely to be the first of the three to succumb to radio cash. In fact, he is reported to have promised the National Broadcasting company that he will give a radio concert on his next visit to America. And from Switzerland Ernest Schelling, the composer, has just brought word that the great Pole is playing the piano seriously again and has made up his mind to visit America next fall. Thus the new year may bring his radio debut.

It's reported that Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, with the addition of a girls' glee club, starting Jan. 3, are to get $12,000 for an hour's broadcast, which would seem to maintain their standing as just about the most expensive entertainers in radio.

"The Laugh Clinic," featuring Drs. Pratt and Sherman on CBS Monday mornings via KMOX, St. Louis, has been expanded to a full hour's show. . . . Countess Olga Albani's first Christmas in Chicago netted her a telephone bill running into three figures, the result of calling members of her family in New York, Spain, and other far away places. . . . Contract trouble developed, so Helen Hayes is out of that CBS series which had been planned for her. A musical program with Virginia Rea, Conrad Thibault, and Don Voorhees' orchestra will be heard instead Sunday evenings beginning Jan. 6.

Kay Kyser and his orchestra, heard nightly over W-G-N from the Blackhawk restaurant, will play for the Junior Charity ball at the Evanston Country club on Jan. 2. The affair is to be benefit for The Cradle.

CAPT. SULLIVAN OF STOCKYARDS FIRE FORCE DIES

Collapses Taking Gifts to Family Feast.

Fire Captain Patrick Sullivan, known as the Watchdog of the Stockyards and veteran of many a spectacular fire in that district, died suddenly yesterday. He collapsed on a Halsted street car while on his way home to celebrate his first Christmas with his family in six years.

CAPT. PATRICK SULLIVAN.

Captain Sullivan, who was 60 years old, seemed to be in good health when he left the station, according to men in his command. He left shortly after 8 a. m. to go to his home at 7243 South Union avenue. In the five previous years he had worked on Christmas day and he and his family had planned a celebration yesterday to mark his holiday at home.

Carries Yule Gifts in Arms.

With several presents in his arms he boarded the car in a jovial mood. At 52d street, the conductor said, Capt. Sullivan collapsed and fell to the floor. He was pronounced dead at the German Evangelical hospital. The family was notified by Marshal John Costello of the Fourth division and Father John Gorman, fire department chaplain.

Capt. Sullivan was born in Ireland and joined the Chicago fire department in 1900. He was promoted to a lieutenancy in 1910 and was named a captain in 1917. During the war Capt. Sullivan was placed in command of company 53 in the heart of the Stockyards district, and, in acquainting himself with his area, became a familiar figure to all yards officials and employes.

Injured Fighting Blaze.

During his career he took part in some of the most spectacular fires in Chicago. He was made a lieutenant as a result of his work in the Morris packing house fire in 1910, in which 23 firemen lost their lives. In the 1934 Stockyards fire, his company was the first unit to get a line to the fire. He was finally forced out by the smoke and flames and lost six pieces of equipment. His fellow officers said he never recovered from burns incurred at that time, and his health was injured greatly by the smoke.

He is survived by his wife and three daughters.

The car which struck him was driven by David Rautenbusch of Oak Park. Wilson's death and one other raised the 1934 motor death toll in Cook county to 1,236. The other victim:

J. P. Frieberg, 58 years old, 5139 South Wells street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Dec. 21.

Mrs. J. C. Huntington, 5330 Cornell avenue, died Monday night in St. Joseph's hospital at Bloomington, Ill., of injuries received a few hours earlier in an automobile collision near Gibson City.

NEWPORT TENEMENT EXPLOSION AND FIRE BLAMED ON A BOMB

Newport, R. I., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Police tonight leaned to the theory that a bomb caused an explosion early today in which three persons were slightly injured, a house demolished, and eight families driven from nearby homes by resultant fire.

A three pound can labelled "gunpowder" and containing a small amount of explosive was found in the debris. Officials said the terrific force of the blast was consistent with a bomb explosion.

The injured were neighbors who were thrown from their beds by the force of the explosion which leveled the house, scattering debris over a wide area, shattered windows, and shook the plaster from the walls of homes within a radius of 200 feet. One house was greatly damaged by fire.

RESERVE BOARD REPORTS IT WAS GOOD CHRISTMAS

Business Holds Steady When It Normally Dips.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—In a Christmas day report on business conditions the Federal Reserve board issued the good news that industrial activity in November and the early part of December was well maintained, compared with a usual seasonal decline. The report also said that commodity prices were practically unchanged and distribution of commodities to consumers kept at a steady level.

The board's seasonally adjusted index of the volume of industrial production advanced from 73 per cent of the 1923-'25 average in October to 74 per cent in November.

In the steel industry the output continued to increase in November and the first three weeks of December, contrary to the usual seasonal tendency of this period.

Automobile Output Rising.

Likewise automobile production showed an increase in the early part of December, following a decline in connection with the preparation of new models. In November lumber output decreased by more than the estimated seasonal amount. At woolen mills there was a considerable increase in output, while consumption of cotton by domestic mills showed a slight decline. Activity at meat packing establishments showed less than the seasonal increase. The production of leading minerals was about the same level as in October.

Other details of the board's statement follows:

"Factory employment declined between the middle of October and the middle of November by the usual seasonal amount and was at the same level as a year ago. Declines reported for the automobile, shoe, and canning industries were smaller than seasonal.

"At meat packing establishments, where employment has been at a high level in recent months, there was a considerable decline but the number on the pay rolls in November was larger than in the corresponding month of other recent years. Employment at woolen mills showed a substantial increase. The number employed on construction projects of the Public Works administration declined further in November, according to the Bureau of Labor statistics.

"Value of construction contracts awarded, as reported by the F. W. Dodge corporation, showed a considerable decline in November and the first half of December, following an increase in October. The indicated decline in awards from the third to the fourth quarter was somewhat smaller than usual."

Crop Production Is Low.

"Department of agriculture estimates for Dec. 1 indicate that production of principal crops this season was about 22 per cent smaller than in 1933 and 32 per cent below the average for the previous 10 years, reflecting reductions in acreage and yield per acre. There has been a shortage in feed crops accompanied by a sharp increase for the year in the slaughter of live stock.

"Although output of agricultural commodities has been smaller than in any other recent year, farm income has been larger than in either 1932 or 1933, reflecting chiefly higher prices, and, to a smaller degree, benefit payments.

"Total freight car loadings declined in November by less than the estimated seasonal amount, reflecting chiefly a smaller decline than is usual in shipments of miscellaneous freight. Retail sales generally have been well maintained. Department store sales increased by slightly less than the estimated seasonal amount in November but preliminary reports for the first half of December indicate a more than seasonal upturn for Christmas.

Commodity Prices Steady.

"Wholesale commodity prices generally showed little change during November and the first half of December. Prices of scrap steel continued to increase during this period, while corn prices, which advanced rapidly in November, declined somewhat after the first week of December. Retail food prices declined in November, reflecting lower prices for meats.

"Developments at the federal reserve banks in December reflected largely the seasonal increase in the demand for currency and continued inflow of gold from abroad.

"Loans and investments of reporting member banks in leading cities showed an increase of $150,000,000 in the four weeks ended Dec. 12, after decling somewhat in the preceding four weeks. The growth reflected increases in holdings of United States government obligations and in brokers' loans. Deposits at banks showed a further considerable growth.

"Yields on short term government securities declined slightly in December, while other short term open market money rates showed little change."

TAX ON CHECKS EXPIRES JAN. 1; COST $41,383,198

Fear Nuisance Levies Will Be Extended.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—People who pay by check will get a break next Tuesday when the 2-cent tax on checks expires.

This tax produced $41,383,198 last fiscal year, but the opinion is expressed in many quarters on Capitol hill that it will not be revived.

Some house members, however, have received intimations that congress may be asked to levy new taxes on other things—though a decision on their nature, these legislators understand, will not be made until the administration completes its budget and relief plans.

Fear Levies to Continue.

More than a score of taxes expire or change six months hence unless they are re-enacted. After a recent conference with President Roosevelt, Chairman Doughton [Dem., N. C.] of the ways and means committee said he feared it would be necessary to extend the expiring "nuisance" levies.

Estimates by committee tax experts say these temporary levies will produce $416,000,000 in revenue in the present fiscal year ending next June 30.

This does not include the bank check tax nor the extra cent on first class postage. Incidentally, a reduction from 3 to 2 cents in such postage becomes effective automatically next July 1.

Expiring Taxes and Yield.

Levies that will expire June 30, and the revenue they are expected to bring in during the present fiscal year are:

Lubricating oil, $25,239,000; brewers' wort and grape concentrate, $1,283,000; matches, $3,216,000; gasoline, $185,043,000; electrical energy, $32,886,000; toilet preparations, $10,433,000; fur articles, $2,000,000; jewelry, $1,500,000; radios and phonographs, $3,782,000; mechanical refrigerators, $5,883,000; sporting goods, $4,831,000; firearms and shells, $2,485,000; chewing gum, $800,000; telephone, telegraph and cable, $20,981,000; transportation of oil by pipe line, $9,388,000; import excise taxes on coal, copper, lumber, malt and petroleum, $10,000,000 to $11,000,000.

Those that expire July 31, and the estimated revenue:

Tires and inner tubes, $20,056,000; automobile trucks, $4,882,000; automobiles and motorcycles, $31,000,000; automobile parts and accessories, $6,128,000.

Nachman Spring-Filled.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a report on Nachman Spring-Filled?—K. J. W.

Answer: During the 1932 fiscal year Nachman Spring-Filled corporation discontinued the manufacture of springs for the automobile industry. Operations are now confined to manufacture of springs for the furniture and mattress industries. They are conducted in Norfolk, Va.; Chicago, New York, and Los Angeles.

Yr. ended June 30.	Net sales.	Net loss.	Loss per share.
1934	$1,467,000	*$83,000	*$0.94
1933	2,388,000	158,000	1.75
1932	2,855,000	108,000	1.09
1931	3,712,000	30,000	.30

*Net income.

Current position on June 16, 1934, was satisfactory. Current assets were $902,000 and current liabilities were $74,000. Capitalization consists solely of 88,113 shares of no par stock on which nothing has been paid since April 1, 1930.

The stock is a speculation.

Pennsylvania Gas and Electric.

Answer: Pennsylvania Gas and Electric corporation is a holding company controled by American Electric Power corporation. Subsidiaries furnish gas to many small communities in six eastern states, but most of their business is done in and around York, Pittston and Roulette, Pa.

Favorable weather conditions, which stimulated consumption of gas for heating purposes, and general economic improvement, coupled with an aggressive merchandising policy, enabled the company to boost its earnings to a point where they covered fixed charges 1.60 times in the 12 months to Aug. 31, 1934, against 1.46 times in the preceding 12 months, despite a heavier tax load and rising costs.

Charges were earned 1.54 times in 1933, against 1.42 times in 1932 and 1.41 times in 1931.

Although the trend of earnings, in comparison with utilities as a whole, is favorable, the debentures, as the unsecured obligation of the holding company, are in effect junior to $11,174,000 funded debt and preferred stock of subsidiaries. Earnings over a period of time have been only slightly in excess of charges.

The debentures due 1976 are therefore regarded as more a speculation than an investment.

SANITARY BOARD SEEKS LEAVE TO REFINANCE DEBT

Sees $3,000,000 Annual Tax Cut Under Plan.

The sanitary district will join with the Chicago park district in a campaign for legislative authority to refinance its bonded debt, according to Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district.

The plan, if successful, would mean an abatement of more than $3,000,000 in the 1935 tax levy for debt service, Mr. Woodhull said yesterday. The park district, too, envisions a $3,000,000 abatement.

John Rees, Henry S. Culter and representatives of the sanitary and park boards are drafting a bill for blanket authorization for municipalities to refinance their debts, equalizing payments over a 20-year period. Mr. Rees is secretary of the Citizens' Committee on Public Expenditures, and Mr. Culter is a municipal securities expert.

Suggested Plan of Refinancing.

The present bonded debt of the Chicago park district, inherited from the 22 superseded park units, is estimated at $100,000,000. The total bonded debt of the sanitary district is $140,000,000.

The refinancing program in both instances contemplates the issuance of callable refunding bonds secured by a tax levy double the annual interest on the bonds. Thus, if half the levy were collected, the interest could be paid regularly, and any collections over this amount might be applied to retirement of principal.

With the arrival of better economic conditions the levy would be increased, insuring payment of the bonds in 20 years, and providing for their retirement within a shorter period if money became available. Thus no tax money would be tied up in sinking funds.

Source of Proposed Savings.

The refunding program would make its value felt the first year of operation, officials believe. Under it the $12,000,000 debt service levy of the park district would be reduced to $9,000,000 in 1935, or double the $4,500,000 interest charges, with a consequent abatement of $3,000,000.

The sanitary district's refunding bond levy would be approximately $12,000,000, or double the $6,000,000 interest requirements. Since the levy now obtaining to service serial bonds amounts to $15,165,175 a year, the refinancing arrangement would make possible a tax abatement estimated at $3,165,000.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, endorsed the refinancing principle in announcing the park district budget Sunday. Yesterday Mr. Woodhull added his approval.

MODERNIZATION PERMITS GAIN 62% IN NOVEMBER

Washington, D. C. Dec. 25.—(AP)—Home modernization permits, the Housing administration reported tonight, showed a gain for November of 62 per cent over last year.

The total of $13,071,000, reports from 772 cities showed, compared with $8,110,000 in November, 1933.

The Housing administration, which said the figures reflected the progress of its modernization campaign, previously has cited gains of 18 per cent for August, 27 per cent for September, 50 per cent for October.

By geographical divisions gains were: East south central, 136 per cent; south Atlantic, 101 per cent; mountain, 86 per cent; west north central, 80 per cent; west south central, 78; east north central, 71; Pacific, 51; middle Atlantic, 45, and New England, 32.

Silver Purchase Shortage Is Blamed on Small Output

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Low output of domestic mines was blamed today by treasury officials for the government's failure to purchase the amount of silver it had agreed to acquire during the first year of the London silver agreement.

REPORTS FRANCE MAY FORCE GOLD INTO CIRCULATION

Dr. Palyi Tells Plan to Restore Confidence.

The French government is giving serious consideration to a proposal which would force gold into circulation, according to Dr. Melchior Palyi, visiting professor at the University of Chicago and former adviser to the Reichsbank.

Such a move would be in direct contrast with the current trend in governmental policies, of which the United States is a leading exponent, in forcing all its gold into treasury vaults.

The core of the proposal to strengthen confidence in the French currency lies in a plan to pay interest on the nation's public debt in gold coin.

It is reasoned that the French people will have no incentive for hoarding gold if they find that they can obtain it easily. It is calculated that the huge French gold supply is more than sufficient to support the plan.

Dr. Palyi said he has been informed that the gold payments may begin with the April interest obligations on the public debt.

The semi-annual charge amounts to approximately 3½ billion francs, according to Dr. Palyi. It is estimated in French financial circles, however, that at least half that amount would find its way almost immediately back to government coffers and the Bank of France. But even if this estimate does not pan out, the huge French gold hoard of some 80 billion francs is believed to be more than a safe backlog to the nation's gold standard.

Dr. Palyi said that the scheme is another of the steps taken by the French government which constitute a monetary revolution for that country.

Strange as the phenomenon may seem, the visiting professor related, the depression years have seen France achieve a real gold standard and a budget actually balanced for the first time in many a decade. The Franco-Prussian war left the former nation ruined. Though on various gold standards since then, he explained, the backing never was enough to warrant calling France on a gold standard until the last few years. The same applies to a balanced budget—for many years it was customary to pass appropriations on a hand to mouth basis monthly, because no agreement could be reached to pass a budget for the full 12 months at the outset of the year.

HOLC REPORTS LOANS TO 639,351 PERSONS; TOTAL $2,103,161,423

Washington, D. C. Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Home Owners Loan corporation today announced that it had made Christmas a more festive holiday for more than 600,000 families by granting them emergency mortgages.

Up to Dec. 13 the corporation said it had closed mortgage refinancing loans on 639,351 individual urban homes throughout the United States to a total of $2,103,161,423. Of this number 34,133 loans were closed in Illinois for a total of $130,864,972.

Approximately 25,000 more Illinoisans, the corporation said, were among the 235,000 applicants for loans who have been informed that their files are now in the hands of title examiners or loan closers, well on the way to final closing or rejection.

Other hundreds of thousands of people, apart from the borrowers, have benefited, the corporation continued, either directly or indirectly, by receiving HOLC bonds in exchange for their frozen mortgage holdings.

"The average loan to date is $3,024 for the nation, or $3,834 for Illinois, calling for payment of about $24 each month," officials said in their statement.

Less than 12 per cent are more than two monthly payments behind in the principal or interest due on their corporation mortgages, he reported. This, he contended, reflected a low rate of delinquency.
